

The Oldest, Largest and Best
Advertising Medium in Oneida County.

THE NEW NORTH.

VOLUME 24, NO. 88

RHINELANDER, WISCONSIN, THURSDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 2, 1905.

The Most Widely Circulated
Paper Published in Northern Wis.

TERMS-$1.50 IN ADVANCE

Underwear Weather!

For warm goods is at hand. We have always taken the front seat on Men's Underwear and the reason is this. We sell Stanley's goods. Everybody who has worn Stanley's goods will tell you that they would not wear anything else even though they could get them for nothing. Stanley's Shirts and Drawers are all wool and they are warmer than anything else you can buy for the same money. They will not shrink with washing. Just ask any man who has worn Stanley's Underwear (and the city is full of them) and every man will say Buy Stanley Underwear.

Last winter we sold over 4,000 shirts and drawers in Rhinelander. We are selling them by the dozens now. They all want them. Get them of

SPAFFORD & COLE

We Lead the Followers And do not Follow the Leaders!

We were first in the field with our Red Tag Overcoat Sale, and we are going to continue it for the advertised time-10 days only. Saturday, Nov. 4th, will be the banner day of the sale. We have sold lots of coats, but we are going to make this one day a regular hummer. The weather is right, the prices right and the goods are right. We don't lead or originate in any particular line, but we are selling Overcoats at this sale so cheap you'll think you're fleecing them. Come in and see them.

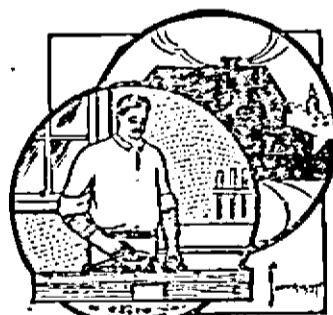

Our Motto: "Quick Sales, Small Profits".

ZANDER & FREDRICKSON.

House Bills Complete

We are just as well prepared as ever to supply your wants

IN LUMBER!

We have a good supply of Shingles and all kinds of Lumber. You will find that our prices are not high either. Send in your orders.

ROBBINS LUMBER COMPANY.

Cold Weather and Warm Stoves!

Go hand in hand—so to speak. With a good heating stove in your house the severest winter evenings are as pleasant as any evening in the month of May.

The advance agent of cold weather has already been to see us and left a gentle reminder of what to expect later on. We are prepared for it with a full line of

Wood and Coal Heaters

LEWIS HARDWARE COMPANY.

MAIL ROBBERY.

Pouch Stolen From the Soo Platform and Contents Rifled.

It was learned Saturday that a mail pouch had been stolen from the Soo depot early last Wednesday morning. When the baggageman at the Soo depot threw the mail into the mail car of the west bound train at 2:10 a. m. Wednesday, the railway postmaster on duty in the car informed him one pouch was short, but the baggageman being quite certain he had loaded all the mail received from the wagon, told him he had probably overlooked it and to check up the pouches again. In the meantime the train pulled out and no more was thought of the matter until a letter was received from the Chief Clerk of the Railway Mail service asking why pouch had not been dispatched as usual. The Postmaster immediately wired that the pouch had gone forward as usual to the depot and commenced to investigate the matter. In going down in the neighborhood adjacent to the Soo depot, letters were found under side walks and slab piles containing checks and money orders to the new pastor and his wife. About eight o'clock the members of the church and congregation began to assemble, and soon the church was comfortably filled.

The lock and strap of the pouch have been found but the pouch itself is still missing. Government detectives and postal inspectors are now at work on the case.

MAY SUE FOR INJURIES.

Attorney James O'Leary went to Rhinelander Monday evening for the purpose of securing the particulars in a personal injury case.

On the 29th of August a laborer by the name of Gust Den Donkers was permanently injured in a railway accident on a logging road of the Warden Lumber company of Bundy. The accident seems to have been the result of a collision. Donkers was thrown under a locomotive and the cords and muscles of one of his legs was so badly lacerated that paralysis has resulted. Through the legal firm of Reid, Smart & Curtis of Merrill an effort has been made, it is said, to secure Donker's signature to a release which would free the Warden Lumber company from all responsibility.

Donkers has been compelled to leave the hospital at Rhinelander because he had no money. He is now an inmate of the Oneida county poorfarm, a wreck for life. The case is a pitiful one, as Donkers has a wife and four children dependent upon his support who still live in the old country.

Mr. O'Leary is endeavoring to secure sufficient evidence in the case to compel the proper parties to pay for the injuries inflicted upon Donkers through alleged negligence.—Tomahawk Leader.

DEATH OF PAUL O'LEARY AT MINOCQUA.

Last Saturday afternoon word came to Minocqua by phone from Hill's residence, about two miles from town that Paul O'Leary had accidentally shot himself. He was out hunting with another boy, Herbert Hill, and while getting into the boat to cross the lake the gun was discharged in some way, the charge, a 22 bullet entering his right lung. He lived but a few moments.

Paul Allan O'Leary was born May 2, 1883, and had lived in Minocqua for the last eight years. His death was a great shock to the people of Minocqua with whom, both old and young, he was a great favorite. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 p. m. from the Catholic church, Father Blame of Merrill, officiating. Many beautiful floral offerings testified to the love of schoolmates and friends and their sympathy for the grief stricken mother, father, and brother.

KILLED BY THE CARS.

Julius Andreul was killed by a C. & N. W. passenger train last Wednesday afternoon two miles north of Monico. But little is known of the man hereabout. He arrived at Monico last Wednesday morning, and it was supposed he came from Port Washington. In the afternoon he left his grip at Monico and started north afoot. He was laying between the rails when the train struck him. His head was severed from his body and both arms were cut off. Deputy Coroner Mason held an inquest over the remains Friday and brought the body here for burial at county expense. Nothing was found upon the body that would indicate the whereabouts of relatives or friends.

VAN ANTWERP-NORTON.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Dorwin, Minocqua, yesterday, the contracting parties being Mattie M. Van Antwerp and Edwin D. Norton, Rev. A. G. Wilcox of this city officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Norton will be at home at Lac du Flambeau after Dec. 1st.

SEE EBY,

APPRECIATES RHINELANDER.

Said a gentleman who comes here twice a year, to the New North, few days since, "Rhinelander seems to be going right along, all of the time. I was here last spring and now that I am back again, I notice many new houses, some business blocks, many new cement walls, the improvement in your streets, etc. Yes, I read of your fire, but that will work to your good."

By the way, your leading hotels, which are well kept in every particular, are crowded every time I come here, and many guests have to be taken out to rooms. The proprietors do all they can to make their patrons comfortable, but I think all appreciate the fact that new hotel buildings should be erected, modern in every respect, and I am sure they would pay from the day of opening. They have good tables at these hotels. All that is needed is better buildings, which I feel must come to Rhinelander within a short time."

A PLEASANT AFFAIR AT THE M. E. CHURCH.

On Friday evening, October 25th, a reception was given at the M. E. Church to Rev. and Mrs. Evans, the new pastor and his wife. About eight o'clock the members of the church and congregation began to assemble, and soon the church was comfortably filled.

About nine o'clock the assembly was called to order, when short address of welcome was made by N. H. Alban, to which Mr. Evans graciously and fittingly responded. Brief addresses were also made by Rev. Mr. Edmonds and E. A. Edmonds.

At the conclusion of the addresses the guests were entertained with an informal but pleasing musical program, consisting of instrumental selections by Mr. Hayner, with organ accompaniment by Miss McQueen, and vocal solos by Mrs. Davis of Racine, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Hinckel. This was followed by light refreshments and an hour or two spent in social enjoyment.

The occasion was a happy one for all present, and a good omen for the future of church and pastor. Mr. Evans has made a most agreeable impression upon all who have heard him from the pulpit, and both he and Mrs. Evans are admirable in social life. May success and happiness attend them is the wish of all who have had the pleasure of meeting them.

LIBRARY NEWS.

The circulation at the Public Library during Oct. has been as follows:

Bound periodicals	1
Philosophy	1
Religion	1
Sociology	1
Natural science	1
Useful arts	1
Fine arts	1
Literature	6
History	19
Travel	3
Biography	52
Fiction	52
German	1
Norwegian	1

Total

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BOOKS.

Myths	7
Fairy tales and legends	93
Science and animal stories	75
How to do things	11
Games	3
Literature	21
History	22
Travel	54
Biography	10
Stories	97

Total

Grand total

Mary A. Surra, Librarian.

C. F. LANGLEY SELECTED.

C. F. Langley has been appointed Manager of the Rhinelander Mutual Telephone Company's business here and will enter upon his duties at once.

Mr. Langley comes here highly recommended as an experienced telephone man and was formerly located at Menasha, Mich. He is a brother of Wm. Langley, formerly with Barnes & Weesner.

CALL FOR BIDS.

The Postoffice Department will receive bids for carrying the mail between the postoffice in this city and the Soo depot. For particulars call upon Postmaster Parker. Bids must be in by Nov. 6th.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

By Lucile Bishop.

Prof. Blyer of the University was here inspecting the High school last Friday.

The following program on Norwegian subjects was given by part of the Juniors last Friday:

Essay—Some Norse Legends.....

.....Beda Bergman

Selections from Baldur Dead.....

.....Estelle Didier, Eva Hildebrand

Essay—Separation of Norway and Sweden.....

.....Harold Crosby

Recitation—Canote and Alfred.....

.....Irene Balliet

Recitation—Bitter Rose.....

.....Francis Coon

Music.....

.....Girls' Chorus

Essay—Leif Ericson.....

.....Emma Desmure

Recitation—Challenge of Thor.....

.....Sam Chatterton

Recitation—Norse Lullaby.....

.....Louise Jones

Essay—Hans Christian Anderson.....

.....Wilber Briggs

Recitation—King of Denmark's Isle.....

.....Lucille Bishop

Music.....

.....Girls' Chorus

AUTOPSY HELD.

The remains of Mrs. James A. Walsh, who died from the result of a bullet wound at Crandon, were disinterred at Eagle River Friday and an autopsy over the remains was held by Drs. Welsh of this city, Sifton of Milwaukee and Dreher of Crandon. The attorney was ordered by the attorney general and was conducted privately. No reliable information is obtainable, but it is reported a 22 calibre bullet was found just below the heart.

NOT YET.

Some papers of this congressional district pretend to believe the erroneous statement of the Milwaukee Daily News of a few days ago, that W. E. Brown of this city, would not again be a candidate for congress. The Wausau Daily Record in an article under the head of "Time to Act" publishes a half column on this subject.

Congressman Brown is not out of the race.

If Wausau or any other city of the district should have a candidate for congressional honors, who should announce his candidacy upon the theory that Welsh, Brown is going to withdraw, he is very much mistaken.

IT MAY HAPPEN.

Now that cold weather is coming on the postoffice lobby is again becoming a place for young men and women to congregate Sunday afternoons, to visit, under pretense of waiting for the mail. Last Sunday afternoon it was announced that the train was about two hours late, but still the crowd remained to do the required amount of visiting. A systematic account of the people who fill up the lobby of the postoffice Sunday afternoons has been kept for several Sundays and it has been noticed that fully one-half of the crowd who haven't lock boxes, go out without even asking for mail, and cases have been noticed where people who go out shortly after the window is raised, sometimes come back in a few minutes to stand around. While this may be a very nice arrangement for some of the kids, it is not appreciated by the public who go to the post office for mail. It has been suggested that the Postoffice Department be asked to furnish some seats for this crowd of young people and place them against the wall out of the way so that people who really go to the office for mail can find room to navigate. We understand the postmaster has been watching his Sunday afternoon "guests" lately and knows pretty nearly now who come for mail and who do not. It would be rather embarrassing for some of our young men who are learning to smoke, and have that pleasant, "Don't cher know" appearance that is so fascinating, to be interrupted in the midst of the narration of a hairbreadth escapade that never happened, by the postmaster, and be told to "git." It would be extremely embarrassing, but it may happen.

NEW TAILOR SHOP NOW OPEN.
We are now nicely located in our new quarters at No. 12 South Brown St., where we will be pleased to have the people of Rhinelander call and see us. We have on display a fine line of woolens and worsteds as well as other suitings and are prepared to take orders for winter suits and overcoats. We have new and exclusive styles to choose from and guarantee you satisfaction in every instance. Our prices are the lowest possible and consistent with good workmanship and quality of goods.

Respectfully yours,

M. J. SLATTER, Merchant Tailor.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

By Lucile Bishop.

Prof. Blyer of the University was here inspecting the High school last Friday.

The following program on Norwegian subjects was given by part of the Juniors last Friday:

Essay—Some Norse Legends.....

.....Beda Bergman

Selections from Baldur Dead.....

NEW NORTH.

PAZ & CO., Publishers
RHINELANDER - WISCONSIN

NOVEMBER...1905
Sat	Sun	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thur	Fri
		1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30

SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTS

MOST IMPORTANT HAPPENINGS AT HOME TOLD IN CONDENSED FORM.

LATE FOREIGN DISPATCHES

Interesting Items of News Gathered from All Parts of the Globe and Outlined in the Briefest Manner Possible.

UPRISING IN RUSSIA.

The Russian strike developed into a revolution in Moscow, where the leaders of all political parties decided to establish a government independent of the authorities. Revolutionaries and troops fought at Odessa. Twenty-seven were killed and 90 wounded. Nineteen were wounded at Moscow. Bombs were thrown and troop trains overturned at Tiflis. A panic exists at Warsaw.

Russian officials give up all hope of avoiding an armed revolution. The strike grows and the whole empire is at a standstill. Government employees vote to cease work. Students covered Treppoff, who allowed them to hold a monster meeting, attended by 20,000.

The railroad system of Russia is almost completely tied up and socialists say, since troops cannot be transported, the government is at a standstill. Fifteen were killed in conflict at Ekaterinodar and massacres took place in many cities in Russia.

The czar, under pressure of threatened revolution and plain talk from Dr. Witte, consented to grant Russia a constitution. St. Petersburg is panic-stricken. The strike is spreading rapidly in all parts of the empire.

PRESIDENT'S SOUTHERN TOUR.

President Roosevelt had a narrow escape from death in a collision on the Mississippi river, the boat conveying him to the West Virginia running down a freight steamer.

President Roosevelt was enthusiastically received at Montgomery, Tuskegee Institute, and Birmingham, Ala. He pleaded for clean citizenship, and pointed out the evils of lynching, declaring it the duty of whites to guard the rights of the negro.

President Roosevelt, speaking at Little Rock, Ark., urged that a stop be put to the practice of lynching and that the statutes be amended so as to prevent influential criminals from escaping.

President Roosevelt ended his southern tour with a day of remarkably enthusiastic demonstrations in New Orleans and left for Washington on the cruiser West Virginia.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Six mine officials were killed by an explosion at Hazel Kirk, Pa., in undertaking a dangerous task which they refused to saddle on foreign helpers.

Three persons died and property loss of more than $100,000 was caused as a result of flood from a broken water main in Chicago.

The trunk of the body found in a suit case in Boston has been identified as Susan Geary, a chorus girl. Morris Nathan, her fiance, has been arrested in Pittsburgh on suspicion of having murdered her.

A Philadelphia ring is said by an investigating committee to have robbed the city of $5,000,000 in the expenditure of about $18,000,000 for the construction of a filtration plant and boulevard.

Thomas Moran, 50 years old, died suddenly in Chicago, and his wife, 57 years old, collapsed and died a few hours later.

A mob at Bainbridge, Ga., fired by the play, "The Classman," lynched a negro, who shot a sheriff while resisting arrest for killing a woman.

The Swedish cabinet has resigned, making room for other men to settle the new conditions arising since the country's divorce from Norway.

An American collector of customs was wounded and his native assistant killed in the Santo Domingo riots. It is feared that the bloodshed will fan the latent revolution.

New York city inaugurated a new scheme in municipal ownership by opening the Staten Island ferry.

Papers have been served on a woman spiritualist to recover $1,000,000 which she is alleged to have obtained from Pierre Lorillard Ronalds, the dead New York clubman.

Ten firemen and several spectators were injured by an explosion of turpentine in a New York fire.

The headless body of a woman found in the Bronx river was identified by a New York merchant as his missing wife.

With masonic rites the body of ex-congressman "Jerry" Simpson was laid to rest in Maple Grove cemetery, Wichita, Kan.

Mal. R. W. McClaughry, warden of the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., has been ordered to deliver Frank C. Bigelow, the ex-banker, to the court in Milwaukee on November 20, to testify as a witness for the government in the case against Henry G. Coll, former cashier of the bank.

Direct charge of fraud is made by the receiver of the Enterprise national bank of Allegheny against W. H. Andrews, republican machine leader, in a suit to recover $3,000.

The life insurance companies in New York find it necessary to extend the investigation to take in some of the fire companies and those issuing industrial insurance and policies on the lives of children.

Gen. Dragomiroff, the Russian hero in the war with Turkey, is dead.

After murdering his wife and their two children and sleeping beside their bodies all night at Richmond, Va., William C. Coker went at sunrise to the home of his neighbor, R. S. Gressett, and killed him. He then committed suicide.

Charles Nickel, mayor of Chenoa, Ill., and bank president was shot and killed by his brother-in-law, William F. Due, who then killed H. D. Jones, who sought to disarm him, barricaded himself in the bank vault and wounded two others. He successfully defected capture for six hours, but finally surrendered. Family troubles caused his action.

Former President Cleveland ennobled J. Sterling Morton at the unveiling of a statue at Nebraska City, Neb.

Proceedings to oust the Mutual and New York life companies from Ohio were begun at Akron.

Two men were killed and others are buried under the wreckage caused by a head-on collision on the Shenandoah division of the Norfolk & Western railroad near Nace, Va.

Three persons were seriously injured, one of whom has since died, and a dozen others had a narrow escape from the flames in a fire that destroyed the priest's house at Nazareth orphanage, a Catholic boys' institution near Raleigh, N. C.

King Victor Emanuel laid the cornerstone of the new harbor works at Genoa, Italy. As his majesty, by aid of an electrical device, lowered the stone, which weighed 11 tons, into the sea there was a scene of great enthusiasm.

The evacuation of Manchuria by the Japanese is being actively carried on, and troops are arriving daily at various ports.

The Chicago post office has moved into the new federal building.

Secretary Hitchcock is hot on the trail of land grabbers throughout the country.

Booker T. Washington declares President Roosevelt's southern trip has relieved the race issue.

Mrs. Margaret Todd, 60 years old, a wealthy New York woman, disappeared and was found mangled by a train in Philadelphia.

Rival Interstate commerce law conventions in Chicago adopted resolutions on the question of railway rate regulation and provided for lobbies to attend before congress in behalf of their views.

Minister Barrett says Europeans are capturing South American markets.

New York city plans to increase its water supply by tapping the Catskill mountains with an aqueduct 140 miles long at an expense of $16,000,000.

Seventeen inmates of an orphanage home at Burlington, Vt., were poisoned mysteriously, three dying. The state board of health physicians are unable to find any explanation for the tragedy.

Burglars, thought to have been 12 in number, dynamited the vault in the new national bank at Hagerstown, Ind., and obtained several hundred dollars before an operator in the telephone exchange gave the alarm, summoning citizens, who drove the robbers away after an exchange of shots.

The court of appeals at Albany, N. Y., denied the motion for a rearguard of the appeal of Albert T. Patrick from conviction of murder in the first degree and sentence of death for the killing in 1900 of W. M. Rice, an aged millionaire of New York city.

Five women were badly burned, two of them probably fatally, in a fire which destroyed the hardware factory of M. Gould Sons & Co. at Newark, N. J. Loss, $60,000.

As the result of a shotgun duel at Oliver's station, Ind., Ephraim Ramsey, a farmer, was shot and instantly killed by Thomas Ramsey, his nephew. The shooting is the culmination of years of domestic strife.

Six armed men entered the branch of the Moscow International Tradebank at Litsa, Russia, and robbed it of $17,000. Five of the men were shortly afterward captured and $16,000 recovered. The sixth man and $7,500 escaped.

Adolph P. Pucheran, president of the Equitable Real Estate and Loan Society, Chicago, to escape arrest, wrested himself from the grasp of a detective, plunged from a window of his office on the fifth floor and was dashed to death.

Secretary Shaw told Nebraska banks that there will be no financial legislation until the nonelasticity of our currency causes a panic, which may be soon.

A Pittsburg lawyer says that of the $2,500,000 resources of the failed Enterprise national bank of Allegheny only $16,000 was on hand when the institution was closed, and that collateral deposited to secure loans were rehypothecated.

The Railroaders' hotel, located a block below the Iron Mountain railroad depot in Hot Springs, Ark., was destroyed by fire. Six lives were lost.

King Edward has decided to immediately raise the British legation at Tokio to an embassy.

The private bank of Harvey Hoag, of Barker, Niagara county, N. Y., was robbed by three men, who cut all the telephone wires entering the village and blew open the safe of the bank. They got away with about $3,000 in gold.

It is officially announced that King Edward has commanded that a special mission, headed by Prince Arthur of Connaught, be dispatched to Tokio early in 1906 to confer the Order of the Garter on the emperor of Japan.

Burglars blew open the safe in the bank of Ridgeville, Ind., stole $6,000, and after a running battle with a posse of citizens in which the cashiers of the bank and two of the robbers were wounded the safe blowers escaped.

Burglars blew open the safe in the bank of Elkhorn, Ind., stole $6,000, and after a running battle with a posse of citizens in which the cashiers of the bank and two of the robbers were wounded the safe blowers escaped.

Pearline Kerring, the oldest woman in Illinois, died in Chicago at the age of 104 years as a result of a fall down a stairway.

To win a lot of 25 cents Patrick McGrath, an intemperate farmer, ran an engine into a work train on a siding at Hammond, Ind., demolishing several cars and injuring four laborers.

King Oscar has definitely and formally declined the offer of the Norwegian throne to a prince of the house of Bernadotte.

Definite arrangements have been made whereby Prince Charles of Denmark will accept the throne of Norway, following a plebiscite on November 12.

William Travers Jerome has been unanimously nominated for district attorney of New York by the republican county convention.

Minister Squires is accused by Cuban newspapers of being a party to a conspiracy to annex the island to the United States.

Elliott Fitch Shepard of New York, a son of the Vanderbilt family, has been sentenced to three months in jail by a French court for robbing down and killing a peasant girl with his automobile.

Freedom of the city was bestowed by London upon Gen. Booth of the Salvation Army in recognition of that organization's achievements.

Secretary Root in a letter says the Newfoundland fisheries dispute is not yet completely settled, and asks fishermen to be good-natured.

The practice of mothers riding in automobiles causes premature births, thereby aiding race suicide, St. Louis health officers contend.

The St. Paul road is to build its own line through to the Pacific coast.

Fear of tuberculosis led Mrs. James S. Handy, of Chicago, to kill herself.

National insurance of life and property is favored by some congressmen, who will introduce bills for that purpose at the coming session. A postal savings bank scheme will be included.

The eight-hour day is the issue in the Pennsylvania coal fields, and John Mitchell is pledged to it, but the sentiment in the union is divided.

The secretary of the interior has ordered the withdrawal from entry of 20,000 acres of land in the Cheyenne, Wyo., land district, with a view to creating a forest reserve.

The state bank at Rockhampton, S. D., was shattered. The safe was shattered by nitroglycerin and $2,000 in currency, besides valuable securities stolen.

The interstate commerce law convention in Chicago split into two gatherings on the question of endorsing President Roosevelt's rate revision policy.

The Russian transport Lena, which has been interred at Mare Island since last spring, has sailed from that navy yard for San Francisco. She has been repaired and will return to a Russian port.

The estimates for appropriations for the department of commerce and labor for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907, aggregate $11,263,338, being $2,230,000 less than the amount appropriated for the department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906.

Edward G. Cullinan, the Adams express robber, went into court in Pittsburgh and pleaded guilty to two charges of larceny, representing a theft of $100,000. Sentence was suspended.

Two fast passenger trains on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway collided, head-on, at a point one mile south of Fairfield, Ia. Four persons were killed and between 15 and 20 injured.

The Sydney live steamer Drogher Moana was lost off New Zealand on September 29 and her crew of seven were drowned.

At Cannelton, Ind., Little Fishback, aged 11 years, shot her 13-year-old sister Maggie with a shotgun, blowing off the top of the head. The children had been playing with the gun thinking it was not loaded.

Judge Stebbins, in the county court at Peoria, Ill., sustained the motion to quash the indictment against O. J. Bailey, chairman of the finance committee of the school board, for malfeasance in office. In permitting N. C. Dougherty to carry on his alleged defalcations undisturbed, Bailey was discharged.

Burglars, thought to have been 12 in number, dynamited the vault in the new national bank at Hagerstown, Ind., and obtained several hundred dollars before an operator in the telephone exchange gave the alarm, summoning citizens, who drove the robbers away after an exchange of shots.

The court of appeals at Albany, N. Y., denied the motion for a rearguard of the appeal of Albert T. Patrick from conviction of murder in the first degree and sentence of death for the killing in 1900 of W. M. Rice, an aged millionaire of New York city.

Five women were badly burned, two of them probably fatally, in a fire which destroyed the hardware factory of M. Gould Sons & Co. at Newark, N. J. Loss, $60,000.

As the result of a shotgun duel at Oliver's station, Ind., Ephraim Ramsey, a farmer, was shot and instantly killed by Thomas Ramsey, his nephew. The shooting is the culmination of years of domestic strife.

Six armed men entered the branch of the Moscow International Tradebank at Litsa, Russia, and robbed it of $17,000. Five of the men were shortly afterward captured and $16,000 recovered. The sixth man and $7,500 escaped.

Adolph Pucheran, president of the Equitable Real Estate and Loan Society, Chicago, to escape arrest, wrested himself from the grasp of a detective, plunged from a window of his office on the fifth floor and was dashed to death.

Secretary Taft announces his cabinet position suits him and that he will not be a candidate for president.

The South Dakota supreme court has decided that the county seat of Walworth county shall be at Bangor. The citizens of Shelby one night went to Bangor, tore down the old county building and carted the records off to Shelby. Bangor took the matter to court.

Secretary Shaw told Nebraska banks that there will be no financial legislation until the nonelasticity of our currency causes a panic, which may be soon.

A Pittsburg lawyer says that of the $2,500,000 resources of the failed Enterprise national bank of Allegheny only $16,000 was on hand when the institution was closed, and that collateral deposited to secure loans were rehypothecated.

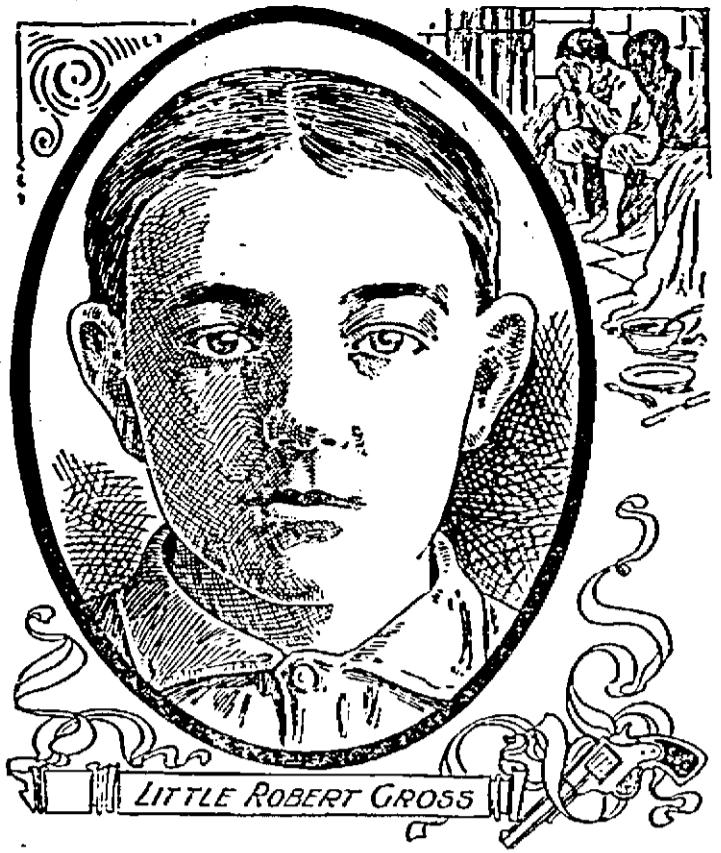

The Railroaders' hotel, located a block below the Iron Mountain railroad depot in Hot Springs, Ark., was destroyed by fire. Six lives were lost.

King Edward has decided to immediately raise the British legation at Tokio to an embassy.

The private bank of Harvey Hoag, of Barker, Niagara county, N. Y., was robbed by three men, who cut all the telephone wires entering the village and blew open the safe of the bank. They got away with about $3,000 in gold.

It is officially announced that King Edward has commanded that a special mission, headed by Prince Arthur of Connaught, be dispatched to Tokio early in 1906 to confer the Order of the Garter on the emperor of Japan.

Burglars blew open the safe in the bank of Elkhorn, Ind., stole $6,000, and after a running battle with a posse of citizens in which the cashiers of the bank and

KILLED HIS FATHER IN DEFENSE OF HIS MOTHER

The Little Hero of a Domestic Tragedy Held in a Mountain Prison in Kentucky.

HAS EIGHT BURLY MURDERERS AS COMPANIONS

Boy of Tender Years Whose Only Crime Was Protection of His Mother from Murderous Attack of a Drink-Crazed Father.—Locked Up Pending Action of Law's Slow Course.

Beattyville, Ky.—"My son was right. He should have killed me." Thus spoke the father of Little Robert Gross on his deathbed, as the sheriff took charge of the child who had fired the shot which ultimately resulted in his father's death.

"I loved my mamma, and my papa was trying to kill her, so I killed him!"

Thus spoke the boy murderer, a child of 12, as his solemn eyes filled with tears and his rounded shoulders heaved under the stress of his emotion, when he was interviewed by the writer.

The tragic story of this child's life, who is now incarcerated in the Lee county jail, at this city, is one of incredible sadness. Heard in the mountains, knowing only hard work and loneliness, his baby heart had turned over to the mother, for whom he finally murdered his father. His young mind clouded over with memories of his father's debauches, it was only natural that he should lavish all the fondness of his affectionate nature upon the mother who had protected him from the cruelty of one who knew not tenderness.

With Eight Murderers.

Little Robert Gross is the most pathetic figure now confined in the Lee county jail. Here in this bleak prison house are eight men, all of whom have the mark of Cain branded on their brows. Two of them are young men, not yet 20; one of them even younger than this, and, with the exception of this child, who is of such tender years, the rest all men of middle age.

What impulse but that of protection, what impulse but that of fair fight would prompt the boy to cry out: "Let my mamma be—let her be, I say, else I shall kill you first!" For it was thus Little Robert Gross pleased with the drunken man whom he knew as father, even as he saw the inhuman monster advance toward the helpless and wretched woman who bore his name, ere he finally, in an agony of desperation, fired the fatal shot which lay low the would-be murderer.

It requires all the wild setting of this mountain home high set in the Kentucky hills, and all the fierce atmosphere which surrounded the tragedy to bring out in detail the pitiful facts attendant on this murder of a father by a baby son. Little Robert Gross opened his eyes to sorrow almost at his birth, and lived out his small, narrow life with no light shedding its rays upon his little world except that of a great love for a mother who crooned him to sleep in arms that never tired of the young form close-pressed against her throbbing breast. Her loving heart often beat wildly in fear and trembling against the home-coming of father who lost his reason ere he left the town's confines by imbibing of a liquid which had been made against the law's commands in the illicit stills of the Kentucky mountains.

Tender-Hearted Mother.

The story of the tragedy runs thus: Robert Gross' mother had given to her aged and feeble father a little of the store which lay within her hands, never counting on the parsimonious manner in which her husband would grudgingly object to the generosity. In fact, she had but given to the poor old man a pound of freshly churred butter which she, herself, had labored over making, and when nightfall had settled down over the mountains, and the purple shadows lay close to the hills, turned to her household duties, and soon had set the family table, forgetting the gift. With no thought of the trouble to come, she was soon about her work, and Little Robert sat by the grate log fire, wearied from iron poker which lay, alast, so conveniently near, and strode across the room cursing her with the concentrated bitterness of his mad rage.

"Let my mamma be," cried Robert, frenzied with the scene, "let her be, I say, or I will save her!"

But the man laughed at the child and his feeble plea as the demoniacal gleam glowed in his eyes like the fire from hell's embers, white, with upraised hands, he made ready to bring down the iron poker upon the furrowed brow of his faithful wife.

In his work-hardened hands little Robert Gross grasped up his father's pistol, which lay close by on a shelf, and pointing it toward the drunken man, cried out a warning. "Stop!" he called, his baby voice quivering with terror and all the wild love for the mother who had suckled him at her breast, saved him so often from his father's brutality, and taught him the only lesson of love he had ever known. "Stop!" he cried again, his voice vibrant with the strength of the protector; "stop, or I will shoot!"

Shot His Father.

Again the father's laugh rang out, scornfully, contemptuously, and he shot a glance of hatred at the child who so determinedly approached him with commands. He made still another step toward his wife, who shrank farther back in the shadows, her upraised arms shielding her blanched features, and made an effort to bring down the deadly weapon upon her defenseless head.

Just as his arm descended a shot rang out. The baby son had come to the rescue! He had held the pistol straight enough—even in the mad terror of that fearful moment—and had shot straight enough to save his mother's life. The father fell forward, the iron poker falling from his now useless hand as his great figure sprawled over the white floor and his life blood stained the boards.

Tenderly the mother and son lifted him to the rude bed which stood in the corner, and laid him high upon the rough mattress. Then the neighbors flocked in, for the nearest residents of the adjoining farms had heard the shot, and the news, like all evil tidings, soon spread.

The Father's Confession.

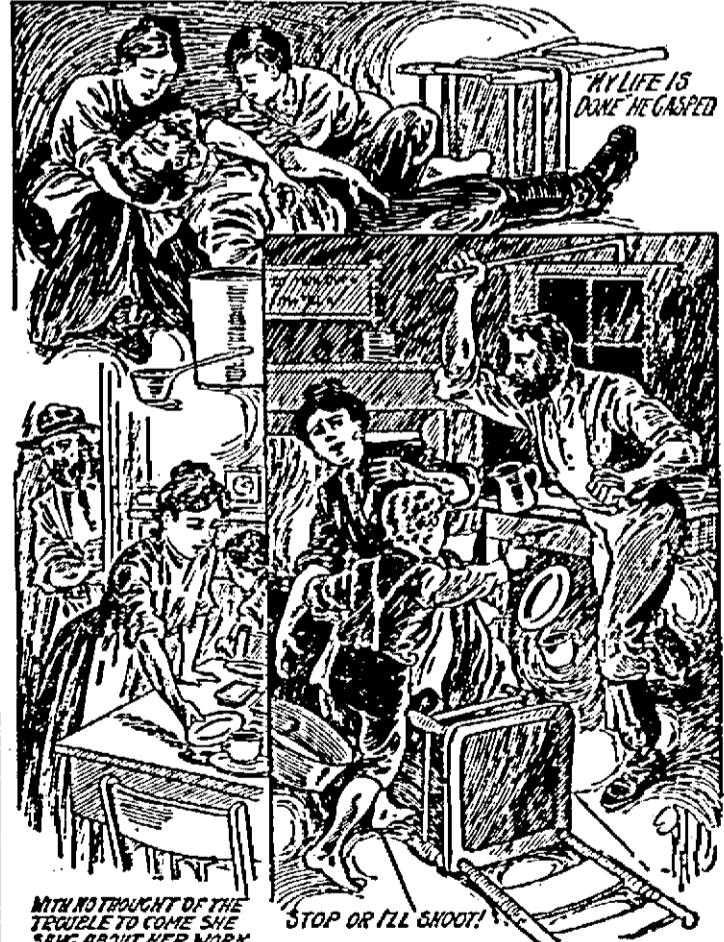

Then, amid the solemn silence of the night, the father made his confession. He related in detail the fearful struggle which had been waged alone there on the bleak mountain side, with only the terror-stricken woman, the brave little son and the drunken man, who had meant murder, but whose plans were so frustrated by the daring recklessness of the child.

"My son was right," he gasped. "He should have killed me!" And with one feeble intake of his shortcoming breath, he died.

Yet in spite of this deathbed statement, which was made by a man who realized the enormity of his crimes he was passed away, and lived only long enough to make a final effort to save his son, little Robert Gross, a mere baby, is learning the bitter lessons of life, while his tender heart is breaking under the weight of his punishment and the grief which has lived with him since the tragedy. The poor boy, who knew only the fierce love of the mountain child, for a loving, if rough, mother, and the cruel tyranny of a drunken father, languishes among hardened criminals in the Lee county jail, because there has been no one in all this section who has been sufficiently interested to make an effort to give him bond, which at most is not over $1,000. So he awaits the law's slow course to bring him back to his mountain home, where a kindly and heart-broken woman, the day's plowing, awaiting his father's belated arrival. Often his mother turned to him with cheery words of affection. All within spoke of peace, and there was naught to mar the harmony of the evening. To be sure, the mother's brows were close-knit, and her weary eyes showed signs of the anticipated trouble as the evening waned late, for she knew too well the cause of her husband's protracted stay. There are no clubs in the mountains; or business engagements to keep the mountaineers from their hearthstones, and she feared for the homecoming which was to end so fatally for them all.

A heavy, reeling step was heard without as the door opened to admit of his drunken presence, like a wounded animal at bay, she raised her eyes and watched him enter, yet with patient voice bade him draw near and be seated at the simple repast which she had prepared. Then she inquired of her father and of her gift to the old man. She answered truthfully, and he cursed her.

To Strike Her.

When his wife confessed that she had given of their small store to her aged father, he was not content to curse her, but, rising from the table, advanced toward her with upraised hands, preparing to strike her. She arose and ran from him. Then he became frenzied with the rage of drunkenness, and cursed her again and again. Crying aloud in her grief that she should be so taxed with the generosity which inspired her to help her father, she retreated from him, shielding her eyes with her hands. He followed her, becoming more and more excited, and was only interrupted in his rapid progress toward the covering woman by Little Robert. Then a blind rage and the effects of the wildcat whisky acting on him at once, he turned toward the fireplace and grasped from the hearthstone the doubly bereaved, awaits him with outstretched arms and longing love. In his baby mind there will linger ever the memory of that night, and he can only await the reckoning before a Judge who is more merciful than our poor human men who presume to pass judgment upon a soul. Poor Little Robert Gross, baby murderer, who is suffering for obeying the primal instinct of man—that of chivalry—the noblest and best impulse which dominates the human heart, and cannot stand by while a woman is unprotected.

It was this instinct which set aside the vibrant cords of a noble young nature and put strength in the feeble arms of Little Robert Gross. He was but obeying the impulse which is instinctive and inherent in the heart of every true American. Yet he is treated as a hardened criminal!

He can only cry out in an agony of feeling:

"I loved my mamma, and my papa was trying to kill her. I killed him to save her!"

Beautiful Gowns Are on Display

This morning we loitered in the shop, gazed with awe—sometimes with smiling contempt—at the "creations" just put on display for the much advertised openings.

Such delicate fabrics, such filmy laces and such quantities used, such beautiful white evening coats, such beautiful hats. As we traversed the two short blocks where the windows tempest, we thought here, for woman-kind, anyway, all the vanities of this earth were spread out.

There were dressmakers and "home dressmakers" in the admiring crowd, and it was interesting to listen to the talk. As we stood with several others before a really attractive, as well as very expensive, gown, we overheard: "Just little dabs of different kinds of goods put here and there!" The creator of the creation doubtless would have very much disliked her work of art thus summed up, but the speaker felt radiant that "little dabs"

Shot His Father.

Again the father's laugh rang out, scornfully, contemptuously, and he shot a glance of hatred at the child who so determinedly approached him with commands. He made still another step toward his wife, who shrank farther back in the shadows, her upraised arms shielding her blanched features, and made an effort to bring down the deadly weapon upon her defenseless head.

Just as his arm descended a shot rang out. The baby son had come to the rescue! He had held the pistol straight enough—even in the mad terror of that fearful moment—and had shot straight enough to save his mother's life. The father fell forward, the iron poker falling from his now useless hand as his great figure sprawled over the white floor and his life blood stained the boards.

Tenderly the mother and son lifted him to the rude bed which stood in the corner, and laid him high upon the rough mattress. Then the neighbors flocked in, for the nearest residents of the adjoining farms had heard the shot, and the news, like all evil tidings, soon spread.

The Father's Confession.

Then, amid the solemn silence of the night, the father made his confession. He related in detail the fearful struggle which had been waged alone there on the bleak mountain side, with only the terror-stricken woman, the brave little son and the drunken man, who had meant murder, but whose plans were so frustrated by the daring recklessness of the child.

"My son was right," he gasped. "He should have killed me!" And with one feeble intake of his shortcoming breath, he died.

Yet in spite of this deathbed statement, which was made by a man who realized the enormity of his crimes he was passed away, and lived only long enough to make a final effort to save his son, little Robert Gross, a mere baby, is learning the bitter lessons of life, while his tender heart is breaking under the weight of his punishment and the grief which has lived with him since the tragedy. The poor boy, who knew only the fierce love of the mountain child, for a loving, if rough, mother, and the cruel tyranny of a drunken father, languishes among hardened criminals in the Lee county jail, because there has been no one in all this section who has been sufficiently interested to make an effort to give him bond, which at most is not over $1,000. So he awaits the law's slow course to bring him back to his mountain home, where a kindly and heart-broken woman, the day's plowing, awaiting his father's belated arrival. Often his mother turned to him with cheery words of affection. All within spoke of peace, and there was naught to mar the harmony of the evening. To be sure, the mother's brows were close-knit, and her weary eyes showed signs of the anticipated trouble as the evening waned late, for she knew too well the cause of her husband's protracted stay. There are no clubs in the mountains; or business engagements to keep the mountaineers from their hearthstones, and she feared for the homecoming which was to end so fatally for them all.

A heavy, reeling step was heard without as the door opened to admit of his drunken presence, like a wounded animal at bay, she raised her eyes and watched him enter, yet with patient voice bade him draw near and be seated at the simple re-could be made use of, economy and style need not be at war.

ELABORATE COSTUME OF THE DAY.

But to get the foundation on which to put the "dabs" of trimming involves no small outlay, for the stumps offered this season are of exceptional beauty and costliness. Of course they can be copied in much cheaper materials, and often acceptably, too; but the gowns at the opening displays are never on the inexpensive order. There are numerous real lace gowns, gowns with real lace in great, deep scallops, or yards and yards of medium-width real lace. However, there is another fashionable trimming that gives as good an effect, if not better, and costs but a fraction as much as the lace; it is a substantial illusion or net, quite extensively used for long draperies on the new dresses. We noticed one of pale gray-blue satin, white net hanging in pleats from the shoulder to the hem of the gown. There was a yoke of pale gray-blue satin decked with great rose-tipped flowers of velvet applique; the whole a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

Right here we may say that pink is appearing as it has not had a chance, before in years, it is in excellent style.

There are who show windows of pink gowns and pink hats, and very beautiful ones. One hat the very prettiest of all the brave array, was a small turban of pink lace, with a misty, soft coloring, lighted by the rose suffusion.

THE NEW NORTH.

PARK & COMPANY, PUBLISHERS

C. M. PARK, EDITOR AND MANAGER

ADVERTISING RATES.

DISPLAY ADVERTISEMENTS—For a contract of three months or less, twenty cents per column inch for each insertion.

FOR A SIX MONTHS' CONTRACT, fifteen cents per column inch for each insertion.

In addition to the above all composition, display ads in excess of three minutes per inch, will be charged for at the rate of thirty cents per hour.

READING NOTICES.

Reader's Notice will be charged at ten cents per line for the first insertion and five cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

All Notices will be charged for at regular rates except notices of church services.

Men who do not understand and appreciate the meeting of the Federation of Christian churches, while and snarl over the exclusion of the Unitarians.

These men do not know the meaning of "Christian."

The Unitarians do not believe in the divinity of Christ. Do not follow him as the son of God. They believe only in his upright manhood. Not in his divinity. Hence were justly excluded.

The president threw some of the barrels in public office in Washington into various "fits," by issuing an order setting aside civil service in some departments; this is permitting the heads of said departments to remove employees without going through the formulas and foibles of civil service rules.

We hope the good work may go on. The advocates of civil service are antiquated, disappointed office seekers, or else impractical men who cannot see that the chief or responsible head of any department of government can only secure the best results in appointing and removing men as he chooses to.

He is responsible and should have this privilege for the sake of successful administration.

Whenever an individual, who is the owner of blocks of stock in public utility corporations, opposes municipal ownership in a speech at a banquet or elsewhere, just watch the corporation daily newspapers and see now they will truly be called sure things. And while men in high places have been false to their trust, while they have stolen or squandered funds that belonged to their constituents, yet their venality and dishonesty have not impaired this principle or materially weakened the foundations of the great institutions they have so long misrepresented and so shamefully betrayed.

The same is true of corruption in the civil and military service. There are elsewhere mercenary men abroad. With too many the almighty dollar is stronger than the official oath, the desire for early enrichment overcomes the strength of personal integrity. Yet the case is far from hopeless. In official life there are more honest than dishonest men. With their help the people will win. The principle of purity in the political and civil service, and promotion based on merit, will eventually be vindicated and will sometime be the established rule throughout the Republic.

That consummation, "dearly to be wished," will constitute a revolution. This has been in progress ever since civil reform was made an element and department in the government.

But these newspapers and their owners, the stockholders, cannot stem the tide. Municipal ownership will follow municipal control which is close at hand.

No, the writer is not a populist, nor a Bryanite. But is among those Republicans who are "of the people, by the people and for the people." And whatever of profit there is in public utilities we hope the people will eventually have it.

President Roosevelt's tour through the southern states was a continuous ovation from first to last. The people greeted him with unimulated courtesy.

The President has fully earned this tribute from the south and has obtained it in doing his whole duty. He has never trucked to the whims of race prejudice, but on the contrary has stood for justice and right. When he wanted a colored man at the collector of the port at Charleston, he stood firm for him. And in all ways he has been just and upright president, a faithful executive of the laws, a conservator of the people's interests. There was no fanning sycophancy in addressing the old soldiers of the confederacy as "comrades." He found the blue and gray side by side, and to the end that all had been soldiers, all were comrades.

The President has now visited every state in the Union since he became president, and comparatively has exceeded all other executives in the interest he has in his people.

LAW SERMON.

Because my people have forgotten me, they have turned loose to vanity, and they have caused to stumble in their ways from the straight path, to walk in paths in a way not easy. Jeremiah 14:12.

Most all the other preachers have expressed themselves on the subject of graft, and my congregation expects me to be in the fashion. Whether this clerical comet has diminished the volume of graft is a question quite unanswered. But all good people should be on the lookout and strike a guilty head whenever and wherever it appears; and there will probably be enough of them to keep all the moral and religious atmosphere for many days.

I think people generally are too pessimistic on this subject. Graft is nothing new or exceptional. About two centuries ago Walpole declared that every man has his price. In later years an American statesman proclaimed and an American president endorsed the political doctrine that "to the victors belong the spoils." That theory has prevailed throughout successive administrations until recently. And even now it dominates the gigantic intellects of some very good men. Even here, in reformed and regenerate Wisconsin, the beacon lights of recent political history are fighting over the offices, and threatening dire regence unless their dictation is accepted. So the theories and conditions which confront us are not new. On the contrary they are as old as greed and ambition. And it is true, though it may not be very consoling, that we are no worse in this respect than the other nations of the earth. Bad as conditions are in our financial and official world, they are not beyond speedy remedy. There are more honest than dishonest men, and in this also other relations the majority will eventually triumph. The people can be trusted, and in the last resort they are likely to bring things to pass in about the right way.

In the mean time, in the face of astounding developments, people are apt to lose their heads. They are prone to ignore fundamental principles, and to magnify into disaster and destruction that which, if rightly and promptly met, is comparatively but little flurry.

Take, for example, the disclosures in the pending insurance investigation. Certainly they are startling and tremendous. Every intelligent man knew that life insurance magnates and employees were well paid, but few were prepared for the phenomenal figures developed by that investigation. It is natural that this should create distrust, and yet, if we pause for reflection, there need be little danger for the future. The principle of life insurance is firmly established in our economy. It is one of the few human arrangements that can truthfully be called sure things.

And while men in high places have been false to their trust, while they have stolen or squandered funds that belonged to their constituents, yet their venality and dishonesty have not impaired this principle or materially weakened the foundations of the great institutions they have so long misrepresented and so shamefully betrayed.

The same is true of corruption in the civil and military service. There are elsewhere mercenary men abroad. With too many the almighty dollar is stronger than the official oath, the desire for early enrichment overcomes the strength of personal integrity. Yet the case is far from hopeless. In official life there are more honest than dishonest men. With their help the people will win. The principle of purity in the political and civil service, and promotion based on merit, will eventually be vindicated and will sometime be the established rule throughout the Republic.

That consummation, "dearly to be wished," will constitute a revolution. This has been in progress ever since civil reform was made an element and department in the government.

Sells More of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than of All Others Put Together.

Opportunities is the name of a little book published by the emigration department of the Northern Pacific, which gives a list of openings in the different professions and lines of business at the various towns traversed by this road. Each town which needs any industry not at present located there is fully described therein. Persons who are anxious to engage in any particular line of business can easily see, not only where there is an opening for them, but just how promising that opening is. Along a system as large as the Northern Pacific there are bound to be a great many points where stores of various kinds, mills, brick yards, banks, creameries, factories, etc., are needed.

Anyone with a little money to invest, who wishes to embark in any of these lines, will do well to write for a copy of this book to Mr. C. W. Mott, General Emigration Agent, Northern Pacific Railway, St. Paul, Minn.

CHURCH NOTES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Service every Sunday at 10:45 a.m. in White's hall, North side. Subject of sermon for next Sunday: "Mortal and Immortal." The public cordially invited.

CONGREGATIONAL.

Morning worship, 10:30; Bible school, 11:45; North side primary school, 12 p.m.; Evening service, 7:30. Rev. A. G. Wilson.

FIRST BAPTIST.

Morning service and sermon, 10:30; Bible school, 11:45; evening service and sermon, 7:30; prayer service Thursday evening, 7:30. Rev. J. H. Gidwitz.

FREE METHODIST.

Preaching, 11 a.m.; Sunday school, 12; preaching, 12:30 p.m.; mid-week prayer service, Friday evening, 7:30. Rev. D. O. Duetzman.

GERMAN LUTHERAN.

Service 10:30 a.m.; Sunday School, 11:30 a.m.; Service every Sunday at Scandinavian Hall near first viaduct. Rev. J. DeJong.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

Morning service, 10:30; Bible school, 11:45; Evening service, 7:30; mid-week prayer service, Thursday, 7:30. Rev. Richard Evans.

ST. AGUSTINE'S.

Holy Communion, 7:30; morning prayer and sermon, 10:30; Sunday school, 12; evening prayer and sermon, 7:30. Friday, evening prayer, Litany and Instruction, 7:30. The Friday evening instruction is open to free discussion and all are cordially invited.

ANGLO-INDIAN GEO. M. BANISTER.

ST. MARY'S.

Sunday services: Low Mass, 8 a.m.; High Mass and sermon, 10 a.m.; Baptism, 2 p.m.; Boys' Society meeting, 3 to 5:30; Vespers, 7 p.m.

Saturday, at the school chapel at 7.

Rev. Dr. Bishop F. A. Schlauder will hold Confirmation service Nov. 12.

Rev. F. L. Lutzschwager.

RAILROAD ARMY.

Sunday services: Sunday school, 2 p.m.; Christian praise service, 3 p.m.; Instruction rally, 4 p.m. Services every night, except Monday, 8 p.m.

CAIT. H. KIRKING AND WIFE.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY.

Anyone who desires to have a de-nominational or Union Sunday school in any neglected community where it is inconvenient to attend their respective churches in this or any of the adjoining counties, may write to me and I will be glad of the opportunity to serve them.

Rev. L. P. Porter, American Sunday school Union Missionary, Rhinelander, Wis.

We must incorporate in our school system the teaching of personal, social and municipal morality. We must cease to be afraid of political bigwigs. Politicians, parties and administrations must ignore the creeds of demagogues, and learn that the only true personal liberty is that which helps to build up the best manhood and secures the most in-

FINDS LIFE'S ELIXIR.

GOTHAMITE DISCOVERS SECRET OF LONGEVITY.

Prof. Herbert W. Hart Declares He Knows How to Survive to Age of Methuselah—Has John L. Sullivan Framed at 73 Years.

New York.—How to live to be 100 years old, have the clear, active brain of youth, the velvety skin of a baby and the muscles of an athlete is the secret which Prof. Herbert W. Hart, "authority on dietetics, denizen of the world" and at present a citizen of New York, claims he holds. He is certain he has found the fountain of perpetual youth for which Ponc de Leon searched so long and hopelessly. Furthermore, he declares he was a walking skeleton, with death staring him in the face, until he learned his lesson in the way all lessons worth learning are mastered—from a woman, a Jewish handmaiden, while she followed in the footsteps of Rachael of old on the hills of Judea. She taught him that he must go back to the primitive life and eat food prepared in the primitive way.

In Time of Peace.

In the first months of the Russo-Japan war we had a striking example of the necessity for preparation and the early advantage of those who, so to speak, "have shingled their roofs in dry weather." The virtue of preparation has made history and given to us our greatest men. The individual, as well as the nation should be prepared for any emergency. Are you prepared successfully to combat the first cold you take? A cold can be cured much more quickly when treated as soon as it has been contracted and before it has become settled in the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds, and should be kept at hand ready for instant use. For sale by

Anderle & Homan.

"Opportunities."

Opportunities is the name of a little book published by the emigration department of the Northern Pacific, which gives a list of openings in the different professions and lines of business at the various towns traversed by this road. Each town which needs any industry not at present located there is fully described therein. Persons who are anxious to engage in any particular line of business can easily see, not only where there is an opening for them, but just how promising that opening is. Along a system as large as the Northern Pacific there are bound to be a great many points where stores of various kinds, mills, brick yards, banks, creameries, factories, etc., are needed.

Any one with a little money to invest, who wishes to embark in any of these lines, will do well to write for a copy of this book to Mr. C. W. Mott, General Emigration Agent, Northern Pacific Railway, St. Paul, Minn.

Sells More of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than of All Others Put Together.

As a proof of the soundness of his reasoning he points to himself, at 73 years, with the physical development of a John L. Sullivan, the complexion of a blushing debutante and a brain which he asserts works with the alertness of youth. He is emphatic that he does not consult the "beauty" columns for preparations to apply to his skin, pays no attention to physical culture and indulges in no mental gymnastics to keep his brain active. He simply eats primitive foods.

"Half-nourished brains cannot do sound thinking," declares Prof. Hart. "All will agree with me thus far. When nature is denied a sufficiency of proper and pure material to nourish the entire man the always looks after the lower propensities first, hence crime and pauperism are directly traceable to improper or inadequate nourishment as light is to the sun."

"A well-nourished brain is a good brain and thinks good thoughts instinctively. It is not tempted to do serious wrong because doing right is its highest pleasure. The really happy man is never a wicked man, and to be happy a man must be healthy. It has taken me 50 years to learn this lesson, but I have learned it well."

"We are degenerating as a nation because we are a generation of starch-eaters. Starch contains no protein element, makes good fat, but feeds no brain substance, nourishes no nerve tissue. To live on it is to be a human counterpart of a skinned milk calf—a weak-faced, fussy-fleshed neutro, with neither stamina nor self-reliance. The outcome of the Russo-Japan war hinges, not on a dynasty, but on diet. And if the Anglo-Saxon race goes on for another century living on starch foods it will end in gradual extinction, as did the North American Indian."

"We are degenerating as a nation because we are a generation of starch-eaters. Starch contains no protein element, makes good fat, but feeds no brain substance, nourishes no nerve tissue. To live on it is to be a human counterpart of a skinned milk calf—a weak-faced, fussy-fleshed neutro, with neither stamina nor self-reliance. The outcome of the Russo-Japan war hinges, not on a dynasty, but on diet. And if the Anglo-Saxon race goes on for another century living on starch foods it will end in gradual extinction, as did the North American Indian."

Mr. Thos. George, a merchant at Mt. Elgin, Ontario, says: "I have had the local agency for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy since it was introduced into Canada, and I sell no more of it than I do of all other lines. I have on my shelves put together, of the many dozens sold under guarantee, I have not had one bottle returned. I personally recommend this medicine as I have used it myself and given it to my children and always with the best results." For sale by

Anderle & Homan.

CHURCH NOTES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Service every Sunday at 10:45 a.m. in White's hall, North side. Subject of sermon for next Sunday: "Mortal and Immortal." The public cordially invited.

CONGREGATIONAL.

Morning worship, 10:30; Bible school, 11:45; North side primary school, 12 p.m.; Evening service, 7:30. Rev. A. G. Wilson.

FIRST BAPTIST.

Morning service and sermon, 10:30; Bible school, 11:45; evening service and sermon, 7:30; prayer service Thursday evening, 7:30. Rev. J. H. Gidwitz.

FREE METHODIST.

Preaching, 11 a.m.; Sunday school, 12; preaching, 12:30 p.m.; mid-week prayer service, Friday evening, 7:30. Rev. D. O. Duetzman.

GERMAN LUTHERAN.

Service 10:30 a.m.; Sunday School, 11:30 a.m.; Service every Sunday at Scandinavian Hall near first viaduct. Rev. J. DeJong.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

Morning service, 10:30; Bible school, 11:45; Evening service, 7:30; mid-week prayer service, Thursday, 7:30. Rev. Richard Evans.

ST. AGUSTINE'S.

Holy Communion, 7:30; morning prayer and sermon, 10:30; Sunday school, 12; evening prayer and sermon, 7:30. Friday, evening prayer, Litany and Instruction, 7:30. The Friday evening instruction is open to free discussion and all are cordially invited.

ASHBURNHAM GEO. M. BANISTER.

ST. MARY'S.

Sunday services: Low Mass, 8 a.m.; High Mass and sermon, 10 a.m.; Baptism, 2 p.m.; Boys' Society meeting, 3 to 5:30; Vespers, 7 p.m.

Saturday, at the school chapel at 7.

Rev. Dr. Bishop F. A. Schlauder will hold Confirmation service Nov. 12.

Rev. F. L. Lutzschwager.

RAILROAD ARMY.

Sunday services: Sunday school, 2 p.m.; Christian praise service, 3 p.m.; Instruction rally, 4 p.m. Services every night, except Monday, 8 p.m.

CAIT. H. KIRKING AND WIFE.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY.

&lt;

WE WANT EVERYBODY

THAT BUYS AND EATS GOOD GROCERIES
TO KNOW

(If They Do Not Already) That Here, At Least,

Is One Place in Rhinelander Where Good Groceries
Can Be Had.

We have everything in that line, besides it is the best. Don't forget us on that Thanksgiving order. Please remember that we ARE IT on Oysters, Buckwheat, Jones' Sausage and Armour's Bacon in cans, etc., Etc.

HORR, THE GROCER. GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

THE CITY IN BRIEF

AMUSEMENTS.

Dance tonight, Gilligan's Hall.

AT THE GRAND.

Down By The Sea, Nov. 3d

$600.00 to loan on approved city

real estate. E. O. Brown.

Dr. Hurlbert, State Secretary, will preach at the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening.

Mrs. W. E. Brown will entertain at a six o'clock dinner Saturday for Miss Smith and Miss Berans.

LOST—Between the postoffice and the Library, a silver watch. Finder will please return it to C. P. CROSBY.

Rouman's Bon Ton Parlors have the latest in candles. Their popped rice bar at 25c per pound is having a great run. Try it.

Mrs. M. H. Raymond and Mr. Arthur Taylor pleasantly entertained their friends at a six o'clock dinner and card party yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Coon and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Parker have issued invitations for a dancing party at Gilligan's hall to about ninety of their friends.

The new German Lutheran Evangelical church on Stevens street will be dedicated Nov. 2d. A program of the services will appear in a later issue of the NEW NORTH.

The young ladies at Mrs. Manning's boarding house gave an old-fashioned Hallowe'en party Tuesday evening. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all present.

A. W. Shelton handed in his resignation as city attorney yesterday to take effect as soon as accepted by the city council. A new city attorney will probably be elected at the next meeting Tuesday night.

Chicken thives have been operating late up in the vicinity of Hungry Hollow. A number of henroosts have been pilfered, and in one instance only a few feathers were left from a fine flock of choice fowls.

Cream Sets. per quart, 15 cts. per pint. JENKINS CREAMERY CO.

The November committee of the Priscilla Society invite their sister Priscillas to a box party to be held in the church parlors at 2:30 Saturday, November eleventh. Please bring boxes, paper and scissors. Paste will be served.

M. J. Slattery, who recently came here from Grand Rapids and opened up a tailoring establishment at No. 12 South Brown street, has purchased the establishment formerly conducted by E. A. Kapselk at 107 River street. Mr. Kapselk will continue in the employ of Mr. Slattery as will also his workmen.

Markus Jolla Trimmers and Miss Anna Walker were married at the Catholic church in this city Tuesday morning. The ceremony was performed by Father Francis. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Walker. The Krueger family were among the friends from Rhinelander who attended.

FOX HEXT—A furnished flat, inquire at once of Dr. F. L. Hinman.

Members of United Order of Foresters No. 201, are hereby notified that the regular lodge meeting will be held at the Macauley Hall at 8:30 Saturday evening Nov. 4. A full attendance is desired, as special arrangements have been made for a card party for the amusement of the members. Come and bring a friend with you. MATTHEW KORSTER, Treasurer.

While out shooting at a mark Sunday afternoon, Bill Dolan and Miss Jennie Doyle were the recipients of a charge of powder in their faces. A cartridge failed to explode in the gun and Mr. Dolan was endeavoring to remove it from the barrel with his knife and Miss Doyle was watching the operation when it exploded, the powder entering their faces. It was a lucky accident and the parties have cause to be thankful the result were not more serious.

Milk 5 cts. per quart. JENKINS CREAMERY CO.

Mrs. J. Welson entertained a party of friends at tea last week Wednesday.

Chas. Fillatreau of Antigo has secured employment as carpenter in this city.

The Military Orchestra went to Arbor Vitae Saturday to furnish music for the dance given by the Social Club.

C. A. Hodgesen went to Mercer a week ago with a load of horses he had shipped from Oshkosh for work in the woods this winter.

F. A. Hildebrand has been making some improvements at his store on Brown street, necessitated by lack of room for his new furniture stock just received.

M. H. Thompson, who has charge of the F. H. Johnson Lumber Co.'s interests at Three Lakes, accompanied by Mrs. Thompson, visited in the city the latter part of last week.

A new road roller has been ordered by Contractor McGrath to replace the one used here that is now out of repair. It is not expected much more work can be done on the streets this winter.

S. B. Gary received a telegram Thursday announcing the death of Dan McGillis of McGillis & Gibbs of Milwaukee. Mr. McGillis was well known hereabout, being at one time located at Parrish.

Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Hinman went to Chicago yesterday to remain about three months. Dr. Hinman will take a post-graduate course at Rush Medical College and visit the clinics at the different hospitals in the city.

Cream Sets. per quart, 15 cts. per pint. JENKINS CREAMERY CO.

If you are troubled with indigestion, constipation, sour stomach, or any other pain, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will make you well and keep you well. 25 cents. Ten or Tablets. J. J. Reardon.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Baptist church will have a sale of homemade articles, Saturday Nov. eleventh, at the Scandinavian Hall on Brown street, beginning at 8 o'clock p.m. Coffee and cake will be served also.

Mrs. Mary Germann of Rhinelander has been visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Leander Trindell, 112 Dixon street, for the past several days, being accompanied by her youngest child. Mrs. Germann spent her girlhood days in Stevens Point, but removed to Rhinelander when that city was an infant.—Stevens Point Gazette.

Rev. H. T. Wiltsee, for the last four years pastor of the M. E. Church in Rhinelander now of Fond du Lac, received the sad news last Sunday morning of the death of his father in Lima, Ohio. The word came just as Mr. Wiltsee was about to begin morning service in his church, but owing to the serious illness of Mrs. Wiltsee he was unable to go to Lima.

Fritz A. Carlson was down from Rhinelander Monday to look over his interests here. Last spring he moved to Danville, Iowa, where he intended to locate for the future. He says, "Iowa is all right but Wisconsin is better," and so he returned with his family two weeks ago and is now located at Rhinelander.—Brantwood correspondence in Prentice Calumet.

Buttermilk 3 cts. per quart. JENKINS CREAMERY CO.

Miss Mabel Bryant and Miss Leona Morgan entertained forty-two of their young friends at a Hallowe'en party last Friday evening. The affair was given at Gilligan's hall and proved to be most enjoyable. The hall was prettily decorated with wreaths and flowers. Dancing was enjoyed from nine till half past eleven, when the hostesses, dressed as witches, distributed cards on which was written the fortune of each guest. The music was furnished by the Military Orchestra.

Notice the new ad of the Military Orchestra in this issue.

Bruce's Orchestra played for a dance at Lac du Flambeau Monday evening.

The Military Orchestra filled an engagement for a dance at Arbor Vitae last Saturday evening.

Prof. Hayner, the expert piano tuner is in Rhinelander. Leave orders at Squier's Jewelry store.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Gullard, formerly of Park Falls, have become residents of Rhinelander. Mr. Gullard is in the insurance business.

County Supt. Mason has rented apartments in the Hegn building and will move from his residence in Taylor street about Nov. 1st.

Dr. H. L. Garner and Matt Kristensen were duck hunting at Rice Lake the fore part of the week. The doctor reports very poor success as the lake froze over the morning after they arrived.

Milk Sets. per quart. JENKINS CREAMERY CO.

Many children inherit constitutions weak and feeble, others due to childhood troubles. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will positively cure children and make them strong. 25 cents. Tea or Tablets. J. J. Reardon.

Thos. Bradley, the woodsman from Arbor Vitae who was brought here very ill last week, died at the poor farm Monday. He was buried at county expense, as the poor commissioner was unable to locate relatives near Waupaca.

Uncle Sam is sometimes slow but he is sure. A check for $101.50 was received from him the other day by C. D. Bronson. When the war was ended in 1865, Mr. Bronson, who was a captain, was paid off with the others with the exception of this amount.

Ben. B. Frost of Clyde Park, Ill., was in the city the past week looking up the records of his recent purchase. "For C." With the horse he expects to do wonderful skating on the speedway the coming winter. Good luck to Ben.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Weinhold of Chicago announce the birth of a daughter October 29, 1905. Mrs. Weinhold was formerly Miss Grace Hardwick and during her residence in the city was stenographer for the firm of Wilson & Bronson.

Mr. E. Anderson of Waupaca has taken a position with the Military Orchestra. The manager has found it difficult to fill all engagements, therefore has added several new members. Geo. C. Cook of Virginia, an expert cornet soloist is also expected in a few days to fill the vacancy of Mr. House who has taken up trap drums?

A boys club was organized by Major J. L. Bryant and Miss Leona Morgan at the home of Major Bryant, 112 Dixon street, for the past several days, being accompanied by her youngest child. Mrs. Bryant spent her girlhood days in Stevens Point, but removed to Rhinelander when that city was an infant.—Stevens Point Gazette.

Stop paying rent, buy your own home on easy terms. See BARNES-WEANER AGENT.

The Military Orchestra had a busy week last week, filling six engagements.

Rhinelander Paper Company will be in the market for peeled hemlock logs and wood next winter to the possible exclusion of unpeeled hemlock. All jobbers are therefore urged to peel their hemlock this season. If

Peter LaPort has returned from the twelfth annual conference of missionaries of the American Sunday School Union which has just closed a most profitable session of one week's work at Milwaukee, Wis. Fully one hundred and twenty-five men and women took part in this great meeting, coming from nine states aside from delegates from the east and south. This great society labors in the rural districts and isolated communities of our country, and has something like three hundred missionaries scattered over the entire union. Its mission is to reach and save the children and youth of America. For 81 years this work has been going on and the marvelous record of organization of four Sunday Schools a day extends over a period of over seventy years. Thousands of converts and hundreds of churches have resulted from the labors of these faithful workers, being a great inter-denominational society like the American Bible Society. It has the support of Christian people of every denomination.

Engagements solicited for Balls, Parties and Social Gatherings. Three to twenty-four pieces, Uniform or full Dress as desired. Address

LOUIS DANNER
PHOTO 134
RHINELANDER, WI.

A MATTER OF HEALTH

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

HAS NO SUBSTITUTE

A Cream of Tartar Powder,
free from alum or phosphoric acid

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

PERSONAL MENTION

O. A. Kolden went to Chicago Sunday night.

Frank Kessler went to Pelican Lake Sunday.

J. M. Baker was in Minocqua and Mercer last week.

A. O. Dorwin of Minocqua was in the city Saturday.

Mrs. Agnes Vissi is visiting friends in Antigo this week.

Miss Swope spent Sunday with friends in Arbor Vitae.

Mrs. A. McNamee of Caron, visited relatives here this week.

R. E. Walters made a business trip to Three Lakes Friday.

James Brandon is ill at St. Mary's hospital with typhoid fever.

J. C. Teal returned Saturday from a trip to Woodruff and Minocqua.

H. T. Sparks of Tomahawk Lake was in the city on business Monday.

Mrs. Clara Chafee of Wautoma, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Rod. Gupill.

Mrs. A. B. Donaldson registered at the Pister in Milwaukee one day last week.

Dist. Attorney Geo. E. O'Connor of Eagle River, was here on business Thursday.

Mrs. H. Gupill will leave shortly for California where she will spend the winter.

Martin Johnson of Tomahawk Lake was a business visitor in the city Tuesday.

Frank Bryant went to Hazelhurst Tuesday to look over business interests there.

Frank Hiles, A. E. Germer and R. H. Benfield of Hiles were in the city last Wednesday.

Thos. Harrigan of Green Bay, has been here this week looking after business interests.

John Garber of Somo, was in the city Friday. Mr. Garber operates a portable mill at Somo.

Judge Billings and Fred Anderle enjoyed an outing at Tomahawk Lake the fore part of the week.

Mrs. Mary A. Smith leaves for Eau Claire next Monday to assume her new duties as librarian in that city.

Mrs. Cora Herring, of St. Paul, formerly Miss Cora Holliday, is a guest at the home of M. H. Jaymond.

M. T. Park, Supt. of the State School at Sparta, was here Tuesday and Wednesday, a guest of his son, C. M. Park.

Miss Fannie Walsh, who is teaching at Blackwell, was in the city for an over Sunday visit at the home of her parents.

Mr. Charles Hutchinson and daughter Pearl and Mrs. A. D. Hodgeson and little son of Oshkosh are visiting with Mrs. Chas. Hodgeson.

Editor F. Murphy of the Vilas County News, accompanied by Miss Hazel Avery and her mother, Mrs. F. H. Dibble, of Eagle River, spent Sunday in the city.

Mr. S. Walters and children returned home today from a visit with relatives and friends at Clintonville. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. H. E. Wise, who will make her future home here.

Cream Sets. per quart, 15 cts. per pint. JENKINS CREAMERY CO.

The Military Orchestra had a busy week last week, filling six engagements.

Rhinelander Paper Company will be in the market for peeled hemlock logs and wood next winter to the possible exclusion of unpeeled hemlock. All jobbers are therefore urged to peel their hemlock this season. If

Peter LaPort has returned from the twelfth annual conference of missionaries of the American Sunday School Union which has just closed a most profitable session of one week's work at Milwaukee, Wis. Fully one hundred and twenty-five men and women took part in this great meeting, coming from nine states aside from delegates from the east and south. This great society labors in the rural districts and isolated communities of our country, and has something like three hundred missionaries scattered over the entire union. Its mission is to reach and save the children and youth of America. For 81 years this work has been going on and the marvelous record of organization of four Sunday Schools a day extends over a period of over seventy years. Thousands of converts and hundreds of churches have resulted from the labors of these faithful workers, being a great inter-denominational society like the American Bible Society. It has the support of Christian people of every denomination.

Buttermilk 3 cts. per quart. JENKINS CREAMERY CO.

WANTED—200 cords of boulders or quarried granite trap rock, broken to suitable size for stone crusher. Price $4.00 per cord, delivered at crusher in the city of Rhinelander we pay the weighing.

T. J. McGATH, Contractor.

NORTH SIDE.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe. Blonge and family returned from Palms, Mich. where they were visiting relatives and friends for six weeks. They visited one day here with John Rathwell's family before going to their home in Hackley, Wis.

Mrs. Wm. Bell returned Saturday from Hiles where she had been visiting her mother, Mrs. A. Barlow, for six weeks.

Mrs. Louise and May Mesheau of Rapid River, Mich., came Friday to spend the winter with their sister, Mrs. Frank Lagace.

Mrs. A. Gager, formerly of Rhinelander, now of Clifford, is visiting her friend, Mrs. E. Ponto of this city.

The children had lots of fun singing our windows and playing tricks Tuesday night.

STORIES OF THE FAKIRS

By J. P. JOHNSTON

Author of "Twenty Years of Hunting," "What Happened to Johnston," Etc.

LIFE INSURANCE SWINDLE

A Special Attractive Proposition Which Proved to Be Fraudulent—Loan Note Hidden in Small Type in the Application Form—A "Small Change Graftor"—Posed as a Collector—Cleared $2,000 in Four Months—Finally Came to grief.

(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

"During my experience as a life insurance salesman," a friend of mine remarked recently, "my greatest trouble was not in the keen competition which exists among the good old line companies, but with the young, so-called legal reserve companies, who flaunt the signature of the state auditor, and possibly the seal of the state, as absolute proof that they are—quite their own statement—'as safe as a national bank note.'

"The average man thinks that the old line legal reserve clause means absolute security, whereas advantage is sometimes taken of this idea by unscrupulous agents, representing irresponsible companies, to defraud the unsuspecting purchaser of insurance.

"One morning an acquaintance whom I had unsuccessfully solicited for insurance hailed me, and said: 'Jim, I do not see how you can ever expect to sell your old cut-and-dried proposition, when the company, of course, is selling a 20-payment life contract, wherein you make only 12 payments, a clear saving of seven annual premiums.' (At his age, about $15 per $1,000 of insurance.)

"Now, I am thoroughly familiar with all the phases of the business, and know that there can be no bargains

Very soon a stately, well-dressed gentleman made his appearance, and after introducing himself, informed me that he had just received a telegram from the home office of his company, to the effect that the particular policy I wanted was to be immediately withdrawn from the market, that the company was losing money through it. However, he would try to put my application through, as I could not well afford to lose the opportunity of securing such a very desirable proposition.

"I, of course, appeared very ignorant of the forms and phrases, common to insurance, and simply said that I desired the best I could get for the least money, and that I wanted it right away; whereupon, he produced the application blank (the document for which I had been so anxiously waiting). It was embodied in very fine print, the following:

"Certificate of loan ($375.00), January 21, 1905. This certifies that the ..... company, of ..... has loaned on Policy No. 1,221 nine hundred and seventy-five dollars ($375.00), being a part of the premium on said policy, which, with any additional loan, shall be a lien on the policy only until paid; interest at five per cent. per annum on the same, to be payable on the 21st day of January in each year, the amount of the existing loan to be endorsed hereon.

"The assured has the privilege of paying the loan prior to the termination of the policy.

"It is understood and agreed that if the interest shall not be paid when due, it shall be added to the principal of the loan.

(Signed).....

"I finally decided that, after all, I could manage to get along a few days longer without the $5,000 protection; that I would like to look over this paper he wanted me to sign; whereupon, I picked it up and placed it in my pocket. Of course he objected strenuously, but possession is nine-tenths of the law, and I did not propose to lose out at that stage of the game.

"I explained to Mr. Agent that I was in somewhat of a hurry; that I had already lost much valuable time waiting for him, and if he would be so kind as to excuse me, I would call him up at my first opportunity.

"The loan of $375 against the policy only was so arranged in the body of the application that the purchaser would have no suspicions, thinking that the company as an 'old line' company me, did I begin to suspect something wrong.

"He carried only an ordinary valise, and I had never seen him handle papers or letters, and he couldn't possibly have been receiving any mail. I began to wonder if I were traveling with a "cross-roader" of some sort, and began questioning him closely.

"While his answers were all right, there was something evasive about them, and consequently I kept quizzing.

"He always had plenty of money and kept getting more (collecting, as he claimed), but it didn't seem that he was remitting any of it to his firm. This made things look still more suspicious.

"I had noticed that he was continually buying apples, candy, peanuts, popcorn, and always had his pockets full of cigars, and as neither he nor I smoked, he freely gave them to hotel clerks, landlords, porters, etc. When I questioned him about this, he smiled and said he bought them to give away to men from whom he was collecting.

"The more mysterious he became, the more anxious I was to learn something about him, and as he always found it just suited his convenience to travel with me I let him do so.

"He had accompanied me for fully a week when one day, I happened to go into a cigar store, where I found him discussing a matter of change with the proprietor. He had purchased 25 cents' worth of cigars, and had handed the merchant a $10 bill. The latter had placed the bill in his money till and had laid out four one dollar bills and 75 cents in change, and was searching for a five dollar bill to make up the balance, when suddenly the young man said:

"By the way, I have a quarter in change, so just give me back the $10 bill."

"He then gathered up the four one dollar bills and the silver pieces, and put them in his pocket, together with the $10 bill that the merchant had handed back to him. In his confusion the merchant, for the time being, overlooked this. Still, as he afterwards explained to me, he kept thinking there was something queer about that change transaction, and although after counting his cash, he was still not quite sure he called to the young man as he was about to leave the store and said:

"Young man, I think when you and I were making change a few minutes ago there was an error in your favor. If you will step back here we will go over the matter again."

"It was just when they were in the midst of the discussion that I appeared on the scene.

"The moment the merchant pointed out the different phases of the transaction the young man cried, in a most apologetic way: 'By Jove! you are right, but I never should have known it, as I really don't know how much money I had about me.'

"Handing over $4.75 he expressed real satisfaction in having the matter straightened, after which he shook hands with the merchant and left the store.

"This opened my eyes to a scheme that was novel indeed. I asked the merchant if he had any idea that the young man had intentionally taken the money I had about me."

"Oh, no!" he quickly answered, "he was perfectly innocent of any intentional wrongdoing; he unconsciously picked up my money with his; that's all."

"This incident set me to thinking about the numerous cigars, and the great amount of candy and peanuts he had been buying every day, and the following morning I took him to task about his scheme.

"At first he was emphatic in his denial, but when I urged, and in fact demanded that he produce some of his accounts for collection, he showed the 'white feather' and confessed. He showed me his bank book, wherein his deposits were over $2,000, all of which he had made in four or five months, besides what cash he had with him.

"As we were approaching the next town I said to him: 'Now, sir, when we get to this town I want you to go directly to the depot and take the first train leaving in either direction, and if I catch you here after that I shall have you placed under arrest. I have a wife and baby at home to support, and I don't propose to take any chances of getting mixed up with a man in your kind of business.'

"Needless to say, he followed my instructions. Not many months afterward I heard of his trial and conviction in another part of the state for a case of swindling.

"At first he was emphatic in his denial, but when I urged, and in fact demanded that he produce some of his accounts for collection, he showed the 'white feather' and confessed. He showed me his bank book, wherein his deposits were over $2,000, all of which he had made in four or five months, besides what cash he had with him.

"As we were approaching the next town I said to him: 'Now, sir, when we get to this town I want you to go directly to the depot and take the first train leaving in either direction, and if I catch you here after that I shall have you placed under arrest. I have a wife and baby at home to support, and I don't propose to take any chances of getting mixed up with a man in your kind of business.'

"Needless to say, he followed my instructions. Not many months afterward I heard of his trial and conviction in another part of the state for a case of swindling.

"The face of the policy was payable at death only. The loan against it would continue to increase, and if the insured lived 20 years after buying the policy his family would find that, instead of the $5,000 cash, which the husband and father had depended on to take care of his loved ones, they would receive only $2,000 less $375, with five per cent compound interest for 20 years, or $4,212, leaving a balance of only $13 due the estate.

"It is needless to add that my friend, when he understood fully the conditions of the policy, lost no time in finding the agent who had sold him this 'very desirable proposition' and, after threatening to expose the company's methods in court, secured his $50 note, and eventually took a policy in my own company."

"While in a small country town in Ohio, selling Yankee notions at auction, I met a stylishly dressed young man who explained that he was collecting for a large Cincinnati collecting agency, and that he had business in every small town in the state.

"It could find nothing unusual in the contract, but it was plain to me that there was a 'snake in the grass' somewhere, and I was not long in making up my mind what to do next. I told my friend that I would see him again about four p.m., and immediately left his office.

"It occurred to me that it would be a good plan to have my own life insured by this 'old line' legal reserve company, and thereby learn their methods in detail. Accordingly, I telephoned the local agency of the company that I was in the market for about $5,000 insurance; that I understood they could give me seven annual premiums on a 20-payment life policy, and asked if they would please send a representative to my office, as I wanted my protection to begin at once.

"The following morning, when ready to start for my next town, this young man asked me if I wouldn't like to have him accompany me. I assured him that I would, and he jumped into my wagon. I found him a very interesting, well posted sort of chap.

"On reaching our destination, he left me and went on with his business, while I attended to mine. The next morning he asked the name of my next town and, on hearing it, "Well," said he, "I am going there too, so I guess I'll ride with you again, if you don't object."

"I was glad of his company, and once more we drove together. As on the previous day, he went about his business, and not until the next morning, when he was again all ready to accompany me, did I begin to suspect something wrong.

"He carried only an ordinary valise, and I had never seen him handle papers or letters, and he couldn't possibly have been receiving any mail. I began to wonder if I were traveling with a "cross-roader" of some sort, and began questioning him closely.

"While his answers were all right, there was something evasive about them, and consequently I kept quizzing.

"He always had plenty of money and kept getting more (collecting, as he claimed), but it didn't seem that he was remitting any of it to his firm. This made things look still more suspicious.

"I had noticed that he was continually buying apples, candy, peanuts, popcorn, and always had his pockets full of cigars, and as neither he nor I smoked, he freely gave them to hotel clerks, landlords, porters, etc. When I questioned him about this, he smiled and said he bought them to give away to men from whom he was collecting.

"The more mysterious he became, the more anxious I was to learn something about him, and as he always found it just suited his convenience to travel with me I let him do so.

"He had accompanied me for fully a week when one day, I happened to go into a cigar store, where I found him discussing a matter of change with the proprietor. He had purchased 25 cents' worth of cigars, and had handed the merchant a $10 bill. The latter had placed the bill in his money till and had laid out four one dollar bills and 75 cents in change, and was searching for a five dollar bill to make up the balance, when suddenly the young man said:

"By the way, I have a quarter in change, so just give me back the $10 bill."

"He then gathered up the four one dollar bills and the silver pieces, and put them in his pocket, together with the $10 bill that the merchant had handed back to him. In his confusion the merchant, for the time being, overlooked this. Still, as he afterwards explained to me, he kept thinking there was something queer about that change transaction, and although after counting his cash, he was still not quite sure he called to the young man as he was about to leave the store and said:

"Young man, I think when you and I were making change a few minutes ago there was an error in your favor. If you will step back here we will go over the matter again."

"It was just when they were in the midst of the discussion that I appeared on the scene.

"The moment the merchant pointed out the different phases of the transaction the young man cried, in a most apologetic way: 'By Jove! you are right, but I never should have known it, as I really don't know how much money I had about me.'

"Handing over $4.75 he expressed real satisfaction in having the matter straightened, after which he shook hands with the merchant and left the store.

"This opened my eyes to a scheme that was novel indeed. I asked the merchant if he had any idea that the young man had intentionally taken the money I had about me."

"Oh, no!" he quickly answered, "he was perfectly innocent of any intentional wrongdoing; he unconsciously picked up my money with his; that's all."

"This incident set me to thinking about the numerous cigars, and the great amount of candy and peanuts he had been buying every day, and the following morning I took him to task about his scheme.

"At first he was emphatic in his denial, but when I urged, and in fact demanded that he produce some of his accounts for collection, he showed the 'white feather' and confessed. He showed me his bank book, wherein his deposits were over $2,000, all of which he had made in four or five months, besides what cash he had with him.

"As we were approaching the next town I said to him: 'Now, sir, when we get to this town I want you to go directly to the depot and take the first train leaving in either direction, and if I catch you here after that I shall have you placed under arrest. I have a wife and baby at home to support, and I don't propose to take any chances of getting mixed up with a man in your kind of business.'

"Needless to say, he followed my instructions. Not many months afterward I heard of his trial and conviction in another part of the state for a case of swindling.

"The face of the policy was payable at death only. The loan against it would continue to increase, and if the insured lived 20 years after buying the policy his family would find that, instead of the $5,000 cash, which the husband and father had depended on to take care of his loved ones, they would receive only $2,000 less $375, with five per cent compound interest for 20 years, or $4,212, leaving a balance of only $13 due the estate.

"It is needless to add that my friend, when he understood fully the conditions of the policy, lost no time in finding the agent who had sold him this 'very desirable proposition' and, after threatening to expose the company's methods in court, secured his $50 note, and eventually took a policy in my own company."

"While in a small country town in Ohio, selling Yankee notions at auction, I met a stylishly dressed young man who explained that he was collecting for a large Cincinnati collecting agency, and that he had business in every small town in the state.

"It could find nothing unusual in the contract, but it was plain to me that there was a 'snake in the grass' somewhere, and I was not long in making up my mind what to do next. I told my friend that I would see him again about four p.m., and immediately left his office.

"On reaching our destination, he left me and went on with his business, while I attended to mine. The next morning he asked the name of my next town and, on hearing it, "Well," said he, "I am going there too, so I guess I'll ride with you again, if you don't object."

"I was glad of his company, and once more we drove together. As on the previous day, he went about his business, and not until the next morning, when he was again all ready to accompany me, did I begin to suspect something wrong.

"He carried only an ordinary valise, and I had never seen him handle papers or letters, and he couldn't possibly have been receiving any mail. I began to wonder if I were traveling with a "cross-roader" of some sort, and began questioning him closely.

"While his answers were all right, there was something evasive about them, and consequently I kept quizzing.

"He always had plenty of money and kept getting more (collecting, as he claimed), but it didn't seem that he was remitting any of it to his firm. This made things look still more suspicious.

"I had noticed that he was continually buying apples, candy, peanuts, popcorn, and always had his pockets full of cigars, and as neither he nor I smoked, he freely gave them to hotel clerks, landlords, porters, etc. When I questioned him about this, he smiled and said he bought them to give away to men from whom he was collecting.

"The more mysterious he became, the more anxious I was to learn something about him, and as he always found it just suited his convenience to travel with me I let him do so.

"He had accompanied me for fully a week when one day, I happened to go into a cigar store, where I found him discussing a matter of change with the proprietor. He had purchased 25 cents' worth of cigars, and had handed the merchant a $10 bill. The latter had placed the bill in his money till and had laid out four one dollar bills and 75 cents in change, and was searching for a five dollar bill to make up the balance, when suddenly the young man said:

"By the way, I have a quarter in change, so just give me back the $10 bill."

"He then gathered up the four one dollar bills and the silver pieces, and put them in his pocket, together with the $10 bill that the merchant had handed back to him. In his confusion the merchant, for the time being, overlooked this. Still, as he afterwards explained to me, he kept thinking there was something queer about that change transaction, and although after counting his cash, he was still not quite sure he called to the young man as he was about to leave the store and said:

"Young man, I think when you and I were making change a few minutes ago there was an error in your favor. If you will step back here we will go over the matter again."

"It was just when they were in the midst of the discussion that I appeared on the scene.

"The moment the merchant pointed out the different phases of the transaction the young man cried, in a most apologetic way: 'By Jove! you are right, but I never should have known it, as I really don't know how much money I had about me.'

"Handing over $4.75 he expressed real satisfaction in having the matter straightened, after which he shook hands with the merchant and left the store.

"This opened my eyes to a scheme that was novel indeed. I asked the merchant if he had any idea that the young man had intentionally taken the money I had about me."

"Oh, no!" he quickly answered, "he was perfectly innocent of any intentional wrongdoing; he unconsciously picked up my money with his; that's all."

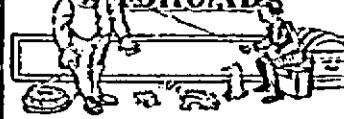

"This incident set me to thinking about the numerous cigars, and the great amount of candy and peanuts he had been buying every day, and the following morning I took him to task about his scheme.

"At first he was emphatic in his denial, but when I urged, and in fact demanded that he produce some of his accounts for collection, he showed the 'white feather' and confessed. He showed me his bank book, wherein his deposits were over $2,000, all of which he had made in four or five months, besides what cash he had with him.

"As we were approaching the next town I said to him: 'Now, sir, when we get to this town I want

THE SCIENCE OF LIVING.
Dr. George F. Butler Tells How to Eat and How to As-similate.

PECK'S BAD BOY ABROAD.

The Bad Boy and His Dad at a Christian Science Boarding House—The Bad Boy Tells His Uncle How They Were Kidnapped in Greece—Dad Sang "Hot Time" in the Bandits' Cave and When They Were Asleep Escaped on a Mule.

BY HON. GEORGE W. PECK.
Ex-Governor of Wisconsin, Former Editor of "Peck's Sun," Author of "Peck's Bad Boy," etc.

(Copyright, 1902, by Joseph H. Bowles.)

"Well, I suppose you have got your European airs worn off, so you can come down to plain American living again," said the old grocer to the bad boy when he came into the grocery with a kerosene can, and sat down on the barrel of dried apples, and reached into his pocket. The old man had just eaten a new cheese, and he sliced off a thin piece of cheese and laid it on a big square cracker and handed it to the boy, saying: "Just lay that inside your ribs and tell me if you got anything to eat in Europe that could hold

"Be careful of your digestion" is the keynote of the doctor's argument. He says: "Health in man, as in other animals, depends upon the proper performance of all the functions. These functions may be shortly said to be three: (1) tissue change; (2) removal of waste; (3) supply of new material. For the activity of man like the heat of the fire by which he cooks his food, is maintained by combustion; and just as the fire may be prevented from burning brightly by improper disposition of the fuel, or imperfect supply of air, and as it will certainly go out if fresh fuel is not supplied, and may be choked by its own ashes, so man's activity may be lessened by imperfect tissue change, and may be put an end to, by an insufficient supply of new material and imperfect removal of waste products.

"We should see to it that free elimination is maintained, for the ashes must be kept out of the system in order to have good health. The skin, kidneys, and bowels must do their eliminative work properly. If the bowels occasionally become torpid, try to regulate them with exercise and proper food, such as fruits, green vegetables, salads, cereals, corn, whole wheat or graham bread, fish, poultry, light soups, etc. Plenty of water is also valuable, and a glass full of cold hot water the first thing upon rising in the morning will aid much in overcoming constipation. Regular baths, cold baths, and massage are very efficacious. In case the constipation does not yield to these hygienic measures, some simple, harmless laxative may be required, such as Californian Syrup of Figs—a non-irritating preparation of senna in fig syrup. Laxative mineral waters are beneficial in some cases, but not to be employed continually.

"Above all be an optimist, keep the heart young. Cultivate kindness, cheerfulness and love, and do not forget that "we shall pass through this world but once. Any good thing, therefore, that we do, or any kindness that we show to any human being, let us do it now. Let us not defer it or neglect it, for we shall not pass this way again."

FROM FOREIGN SOURCES.

The first notes of the "Marseillaise" are being used as a popular form of whistling greeting in London.

Mahorodous automobiles and motor cycles are not allowed at Pontresina, the fashionable Swiss resort.

Because of the dust raised by automobiles, it is getting to be difficult in England to rent houses on roads used by motor cars.

Owing to the insufficient supply of apothecary clerks in Germany there is an insistent demand that women should be educated for places in drug stores.

Helene Lorenzen, a Copenhagen dressmaker, 17 years old, had a record of having killed 11 lovers in two years when the eleventh ended her promising career with dagger.

The porters of the market place in Paris carry, strapped on their backs, great baskets full of garden produce. Often you see a man with a load of cabbages that is bigger than himself.

For drinking a glass of beer in a railway refreshment room at Frankfort, in the presence of an officer, a German soldier has been court-martialed and sentenced to 15 days' imprisonment.

In order to aid the police in maintaining order on the occasion of a recent motor race, the authorities of the town of Reckenzburg, Germany, compelled all local cyclists to enroll themselves among the police.

FUNNY

People Will Drink Coffees When It Does Such Things!

"I began to use Postum because the old kind of coffee had so poisoned my whole system that I was on the point of breaking down, and the doctor warned me that I must quit it.

My chief Aliment was nervousness and heart trouble.

Any unexpected noise would cause me the most painful palpitation, make me faint and weak.

I had heard of Postum and began to drink it when I left off the old coffee. It began to help me just as soon as the old effects of the other kind of coffee passed away. It did not stimulate me for awhile, and then leave me weak and nervous as coffee used to do. Instead of that it built up my strength and supplied a constant vigor to my system which I can always rely on. It enables me to do the biggest kind of a day's work without getting tired. All the heart trouble, etc., has passed away.

"I give it freely to all my children, from the youngest to the oldest, and it keeps them all healthy and hearty." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Hellville," in pgs.

We Must Keep On Building Battleships

BY REAR ADMIRAL ROBLEY D. EVANS.

THE power of the battleship is the power that a great nation must have. We are rising once more into our proper place in the world. President Roosevelt has struck the right note and has stirred up the patriotic manhood of the country. You can see the effects of his virile influence everywhere and you can feel it right here in this fighting force, which needs and is gradually drawing the finest brain and muscle and heart of the fighting youth of America.

It was Togo's battleships and big guns that smashed Rojstvensky's fleet. The Japanese torpedo boats attacked the Russian ships after they were wrecked by the 12-inch guns on Togo's ironclads. That battle has proved, more than ever, the superiority of battleships and has set the torpedo where it belongs, in a class of auxiliary weapons which can be used effectively only under certain conditions.

The true policy of the United States is to keep on building first-class battleships. We will soon come, I believe, to great turbine ironclads, carrying patterns of ten 12-inch guns and 40 or 50 three-inch guns.

We can hardly stop till we have 50 battleships and a naval force of at least 70,000 men—not if we are to hold and defend the Philippines, Hawaii and Porto Rico, protect Cuba and make the Panama canal secure when it is built.

We can't improvise a force like that. It will take years to make it. Some day we will be put to the test in actual warfare with a powerful nation—perhaps more than one nation—and then we must be ready, not only with ships, but with men. What do you suppose Russia would have been willing to pay for the eight battleships of my squadron if she could have got them a few weeks ago? She could have paid 10 or even 20 or 30 times what they cost, and yet they would have been cheap. That's the way to look at this naval situation. President Roosevelt has it right. No great nation can afford to be unprepared for war. Defeat is too costly.

America that was going to buy the Acropolis and move it to the United States and make it over into a morgue, and that he didn't care for expense, for he was the richest man in the world.

"Well, we looked things over, like all tourists do, and we went to Mars Hill, where Paul preached, and dad read up on Paul, and offered to bet that Paul could give cards and spades to any preacher, and then beat him preaching, and the next night we went to the place where Socrates and Plato taught school, and some of the Greeks had watched us pretty close, and just after dark, as we were walking around, a beautiful woman, like a Greek statue, rose up before us, with a white robe on, and she went up to dad and claimed his protection, as she was being pursued by robbers, and she cuddled up to dad. At first we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died. And at last we thought she was a ghost, but when she touched dad, and clung to him, he said she was warm all right, and was no ghost, and he told her not to worry, as she was under the protection of the American flag, and he would stand by her till she died

MONICO.
Miss Allie Curtis returned home Friday. She has been visiting relatives at Mattoon.

A. McKendry returned home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leith spent Monday in Rhinelander.

Sam Oxley moved in his new house Monday.

Miss Anna Plunkett spent Sunday in Antigo.

Dr. Garret was called to Monico Friday.

Miss Ida Schoen did shopping in Rhinelander Saturday.

There will be F. M. services held in the school house Wednesday evening Nov. 1st.

Mrs. J. Durkee returned to her home in Ironwood Friday.

HAZELBURST.

Mrs. Harlow and children of Star Lake were guests at the home of A. Moquin last week.

Mrs. A. Harmon and friend of Minocqua were guests of Mrs. H. A. Howland last Wednesday.

Mr. Playman of Marinette has been getting applications for the Modern Brotherhood and will soon organize a lodge at this place.

Fred King was a Merrill visitor for the first of the week.

The secretary of the E. F. U. was a business visitor at this place Thursday.

The first train load of logs for the Yawkey-Bissell Lumber Co. arrived here Thursday. The mill will be in readiness to start about Nov. 1st.

Mr. White and family arrived last week. Mr. White will take the position now held by J. D. Timlin who will go to Arbor Vitae.

John Tobas and H. Canady arrived Saturday noon and are guests at the home of Truman Lashana.

The dance given by Mr. Gelow and Mr. Klein Saturday evening was not very largely attended, although an enjoyable time was had. Music was furnished by the Tomahawk orchestra.

Mrs. Stoker and Mrs. Gelow drove to Minocqua Wednesday.

Chas. Stoker and wife were Antigo visitors the first of the week.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Hall Saturday, Oct. 28, a son.

L. H. Wheeler returned from a two weeks visit in South Dakota Monday.

THREE LAKES.

The dance at Small's Hall last Saturday was fairly well attended and a good time is reported by all who attended.

Miss Cuff made a trip to Jeffries the first part of the week.

Frank Federer made a business trip to Monico Jet. last Monday.

Frank Golemba and wife returned Monday from Chicago where they had been visiting relatives and friends.

A. Burgraff is having the Loven store building remodeled and will start in business of some kind within a few weeks.

Wm. J. Neu will finish building his new addition this week providing the balance of his building material arrives. Mr. Neu has certainly had bad luck with building.

Prof. Fournier will give a slack wire performance in the M. W. A. hall shortly. Watch for him. It will be worth seeing. Free dance after the performance.

Otto Koderwald has returned from Chicago accompanied by Mrs. Schaff. They will remain here until the close of hunting season.

The Gault family have moved the balance of their household goods to State Line where they will make their future home.

Donnelly, Neu, Clement and Campbell are busy hauling and shipping wood to Eagle River.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Bert Lory Friday of this week.

Anton Nowik was taken to the Rhinelander hospital on account of his severe illness.

H. M. Louk has the contract to build the boat house for L. C. Smith. Emil Klous will ship a car load of potatoes to Milwaukee in a few days.

DOES THIS COAT FIT YOU?

Do you help build up your home by purchasing your groceries of mail order houses? It's a great scheme. There is one merchant in Rhinelander, (he is not an advertiser in the New North) who, not carrying a grocery line himself, sends out of town for his groceries, and being in business, gets the wholesale rate.

This man does not do business on the "live and let live" plan. He wants home patronage but has none to give to home merchants in other lines than himself. There is no law in this country that will compel a man to purchase his goods in any one place. We don't care a cent's worth whether he leaves his small grocery money in town or not, neither do the grocers, but the principle involved that we look at. If we should decide to inform the readers of the New North who this man is, there would probably be a noticeable decrease in his sales, and he really ought to be exposed, but we refrain this time. Instead we will tell our readers of a laughable incident that occurred the other day at a grocery store not a mile from this office. A very estimable lady walked into the store in question with some butter and eggs to sell. She had been buying her groceries out of town without giving the merchant mentioned a chance to figure on her wants. Walking into the store and meeting the proprietor she remarked "Well, Mr. —, I have brought you in some butter and eggs today and as you know the quality of my butter I expect a little better than the market price as you have paid me heretofore." "Mrs. —," remarked the merchant, "as you are now buying your groceries of Sears-Roebuck & Co., suppose you just send them your butter and eggs too, we won't be able to handle them." The lady was highly indignant, but she thought the matter over, and while she will not buy anything of the merchant mentioned, she buys her groceries here in town.

Hallowe'en PRANKS.

Boys and girls of Rhinelander had their annual evening last Tuesday night. They began soon after dark to "move things" and before they tired out they had inverted some sidewalks, piled boxes on walk, ditto delivery wagons and when they surveyed their work early Wednesday morning they pronounced it very good indeed.

It is all right for the young people to have one night in the year for their very own, if they do not destroy property. They should keep within bounds in this respect, but otherwise have a good rollicking evening.

Sheriff Stevens and Frank Sawtell returned Monday from a hunting trip at Lake Vieux De Sert with about 60 birds.

OPENED YESTERDAY.

The new government building at Wausau was opened yesterday. This is considered one of the finest government buildings in Northern Wisconsin and was secured for that city by Congressman Brown. We understand Mr. Brown intends to take up the matter of adding another story to this structure at the coming session.

The International Live Stock Exposition to be held in Chicago, Dec. 2 to 9.

The International Live Stock Exposition is an index of the progress of animal breeding in this country. Here are annually exhibited the best products of the mind and genius of the American breeder, concepts which have been developing during 20, and in some cases even thirty or 40 years.

What a privilege it is to come in contact with these men; what an inspiration to study the results of their consistent and united effort. It is no wonder that students of the agricultural college far and near, with their instructors, flock to Chicago during the live stock exposition. Where else could they hope to find a school exemplifying as this does all the principles of animal breeding and nutrition.

Yes, the International Live Stock Exposition is indeed a great school. Think of what it means to the hundreds of thousands of farmers who annually visit it and see what their brother farmers and stockmen have actually accomplished. Many a man has gotten his first true conception of what animal breeding and production means through visit to the Exposition. It has thus become a great educational and inspiring force to the live stock men of the whole country."

Low rates via The Northwestern Ry. from all points will be announced later.

JURY LIST.

Following are the names of persons drawn to serve as petit jurors at the next General Term of the Circuit Court for Oneida County, beginning on the Second Monday in November, 1905, being the 13th day of the month, town:

John Peeler — 1st ward, Rhinelander
2. Louis Thielman — 2nd ward, Rhinelander
3. James M. Baker — 3rd ward, Rhinelander
4. E. W. Anderson — 4th ward, Rhinelander
5. James Omstead — 5th ward, Rhinelander
6. W. W. Dryan — 6th ward, Rhinelander
7. Andrew Hannan — 7th ward, Minocqua
8. C. A. Wilson — 8th ward, Rhinelander
9. C. E. Eby — 9th ward, Rhinelander
10. F. E. Moore — 10th ward, Rhinelander
11. Henry Vogel — 11th ward, Three Lakes
12. M. H. Thompson — 12th ward, Rhinelander
13. H. J. Strode — 13th ward, Rhinelander
14. P. H. Wilson — 14th ward, Rhinelander
15. Frank P. Timlin — 15th ward, Rhinelander
16. George George — 16th ward, Rhinelander
17. Emmet O'Leary — 17th ward, Minocqua
18. Walter Kettler — 18th ward, Town of Crescent
19. W. D. Joell — 19th ward, Rhinelander
20. R. E. Lewis — 20th ward, Rhinelander
21. James Hanchett — 21st ward, Rhinelander
22. A. J. Wilson — 22nd ward, Rhinelander
23. W. J. Morgan — 23rd ward, Rhinelander
24. Carl E. Johnson — Town of Pine River
25. Mike Halloran — 24th ward, Minocqua
26. James Gardner — 25th ward, Town of Newell
27. Henry C. Beck — 26th ward, Rhinelander
28. Ira E. Smith — 27th ward, Town of Cassian
29. George Brown — 28th ward, Wausau
30. H. O. Evans — 29th ward, Minocqua
31. John Hall — 30th ward, Rhinelander
32. Harry Selleck — 31st ward, Minocqua
33. Fred Elliott — 32nd ward, Town of Pelican
34. Gus McLean — 33rd ward, Minocqua
35. Alex Stapleford — 34th ward, Rhinelander
36. Joe Klett — Gage P.O., Town of Monico
Dated Rhinelander, Wisconsin, October 20th, 1905.
E. C. STERDERTON,
Clerk Circuit Court.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
LAND OFFICE AT WATSON, WIS.
August 21st, 1905.
Notice is hereby given that the following named will be held notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Clerk Circuit Court at Rhinelander, Wisconsin, on December 16th, 1905, viz: John W. Miller, 112 N. Main St., Minocqua, Minocqua, Wm. McVay, Ender, McVay, Eugene McVay, all of Minocqua, Wisconsin.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land. Fred Grapenord of Rhinelander, Wm. Ed. Keder, Carl Haase, John Beck of Kettler, Wm. E. M. Miller, all of Minocqua.

JOHN W. MILLER, Register.

FURNITURE AND

.. UNDERTAKING..

State license for embalming.

Foreign and American Granite and Marble

.. MONUMENTS..

F. A. HILDEBRAND

118 Brown St. Phone 65.

LOCAL TIME TABLES.

C. & N. W. Ry Time Tables

SOUTH BOUND DEPART.

No. 1—8:40 A. M. Daily, except Sunday

No. 2—10:15 A. M. Daily, except Sunday

No. 3—11:22 A. M. Daily

No. 4—12:30 P. M. Sunday only

No. 5—2:45 P. M. way freight. D. & S. San

NORTH BOUND ARRIVE.

No. 5—11:12 P. M. Daily, except Sunday

No. 1—12:30 P. M. Daily, except Sunday

No. 2—1:45 P. M. Daily

No. 3—2:52 P. M. Sunday only

No. 5—9:05 A. M. way freight. D. & S. San

Jan. 26, 1905. W. C. KELLEY, Ass't.

Minneapolis, St. Paul & San Fran. Ry

EAST BOUND.

Atlantic Limited, No. 8 — 2:10 A. M.

Gladstone Local No. 120 — 7:30 A. M.

Way Freight No. 221 — 9:00 A. M.

* Daily, except Sunday.

No. 8 has sold vestibule sleepers between

Minneapolis and Montreal.

No. 120 makes close connection at Peoria line for all points north and south on

C. M. & St. L. line.

WEST BOUND.

Pacific Limited No. 72 — 2:10 A. M.

Minneapolis Local No. 82 — 7:30 A. M.

Way Freight No. 231 — 9:00 A. M.

* Daily, except Sunday.

No. 7 makes connection at Minneapolis for all points west.

Through tickets furnished to all parts of the world and baggage checked through to destination.

R. F. TOMPSON, Agent.

OPENED YESTERDAY.

The new government building at Wausau was opened yesterday. This is considered one of the finest government buildings in Northern Wisconsin and was secured for that city by Congressman Brown. We understand Mr. Brown intends to take up the matter of adding another story to this structure at the coming session.

The International Live Stock Exposition to be held in Chicago, Dec. 2 to 9.

The International Live Stock Exposition is an index of the progress of animal breeding in this country.

Here are annually exhibited the best products of the mind and genius of the American breeder, concepts which have been developing during 20, and in some cases even thirty or 40 years.

What a privilege it is to come in contact with these men; what an inspiration to study the results of their consistent and united effort. It is no wonder that students of the agricultural college far and near, with their instructors, flock to Chicago during the live stock exposition. Where else could they hope to find a school exemplifying as this does all the principles of animal breeding and nutrition.

Yes, the International Live Stock Exposition is indeed a great school.

Think of what it means to the hundreds of thousands of farmers who annually visit it and see what their brother farmers and stockmen have actually accomplished.

Many a man has gotten his first true conception of what animal breeding and production means through visit to the Exposition. It has thus become a great educational and inspiring force to the live stock men of the whole country."

Low rates via The Northwestern Ry. from all points will be announced later.

DOES THIS COAT FIT YOU?

Do you help build up your home by purchasing your groceries of mail order houses? It's a great scheme.

There is one merchant in Rhinelander, (he is not an advertiser in the New North) who, not carrying a grocery line himself, sends out of town for his groceries, and being in business, gets the wholesale rate.

This man does not do business on the "live and let live" plan.

He wants home patronage but has none to give to home merchants in other lines than himself.

There is no law in this country that will compel a man to purchase his goods in any one place.

Yes, the International Live Stock Exposition is indeed a great school.

Think of what it means to the hundreds of thousands of farmers who annually visit it and see what their brother farmers and stockmen have actually accomplished.

Many a man has gotten his first true conception of what animal breeding and production means through visit to the Exposition. It has thus become a great educational and inspiring force to the live stock men of the whole country."

Low rates via The Northwestern Ry. from all points will be announced later.

DOES THIS COAT FIT YOU?

Do you help build up your home by purchasing your groceries of mail order houses? It's a great scheme.

There is one merchant in Rhinelander, (he is not an advertiser in the New North) who, not carrying a grocery line himself, sends out of town for his groceries, and being in business